

Bridge Plans Asked; Board Cites Chandler

Recommendations to authorize the County Superintendent of Highways to have plans and specifications prepared as initial steps for improvement of the Tongore Bridge, Town of Olive, and construction of a new bridge in the Town of Hardenburgh, were made at Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

The recommendations were made by the Committee on Bridges and Highways. The committee also approved a recommendation of the highway superintendent that the County of Ulster petition the state to accept part of the county road leading from Low Beach in Sullivan County, through the settlement of Turnwood to the Delaware County line.

The committee reported this road is eligible for secondary federal aid and both Delaware and Sullivan counties have indicated a desire that it be submitted as a secondary federal aid project.

It was reported that the committee made the recommendations after a meeting with the county superintendent and an inspection of the three sites. The committee comprises Supervisor Robert P. Pinney, chairman, and John Lucci and Arnold Banker.

Cost of the Tongore Bridge project was estimated at approximately $30,000. The bridge, the committee reported, has disintegrated considerably and is in urgent need of repair and rehabilitation. Immediate repairs to the span were urged.

Replacement of the bridge on a Town of Hardenburgh road, known as the Beach Hill Road, was recommended.

Action on the recommendations is expected at the September meeting of the supervisors. Designation of Interstate Highway 587, a local arterial spur, in tribute to Col. George F. Chandler, and assignment of three supervisors to succeed Chairman Peter Williams in the event of a disaster, was among other matters on the agenda.

Chairman Williams also reappointed two members of the County Mental Health Board for two-year terms. The Board authorized the issuance and sale of $35,000 renewal capital notes for the acquisition of rights-of-way for the Lucas Avenue Turnpike project.

$100 to $10,000 Increases

U.S. Pay Hike Signed, Will Cover 1.7 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed the federal pay-raise bill today and said it will enable the government to attract and keep employees of outstanding ability.

He said he already has signed 25 pieces of major legislation, and the pay-raise bill ranks near the top of the list in importance.

Garden Ceremony
Johnson signed the bill in a ceremony in the White House flower garden attended by members of Congress whose committees handled the legislation, government officials, and labor leaders who supported it.

The measure gives a pay raise to members of Congress, judges, government officials and about 1.7 million other federal workers. The boost ranges from $100 a year for the lowest-ranking Civil Service or postal employee up to $10,000 a year for high officials.

It is estimated to add $558 million to the yearly federal civilian payroll which now runs about $15.5 billion.

Lauds Bi-Partisanship
Johnson lauded the bipartisan legislation displayed by Congress in passing the bill, as well as in enacting other legislation, saying the legislators put the country and the people first.

Johnson said the continuing goal of the government is to make federal salaries reasonably comparable to those of private industry.

For most of those covered the raises will show up on the next pay check — retroactive to July 1. Members of Congress will have to wait until next Jan. 1 to get their $7,500-a-year increase.

The act provides raises ranging from 2.7 per cent to 30 per cent, with the biggest boosts going to the highest level officials, including federal judges.

$10,000 for Cabinet
The biggest raises — $10,000-a-year — will go to the nine members of the Cabinet, making their annual salaries $35,000.

The next vice president and the speaker of the House will get $8,000 a year, putting their annual salaries at $43,000. Members of the House and Senate, judges of the courts of appeal, and federal district judges will get $7,500-a-year raises. That will give the appellate judges annual salaries of $33,000 and the district judges and members of Congress $30,000.

The smallest in size of the major raises goes to the Supreme Court justices — $4,500 a year. The House had voted them $2,500 but the Senate trimmed it to $2,500 and a compromise was struck.

4.3 PC for Average
The new annual salaries for the high court will be $40,000 for the chief justice and $39,500 for the associate justices.

For the 1.1 million white collar federal workers, the average increase will be about 4.3 per cent. A typical government secretary will get an annual boost of about $310 a year. In the upper middle bracket an employee (Continued on Page 8, Col. 5)

3rd Anniversary of Wall Brings West Berlin Riots

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners observed an hour of silence Thursday on the third anniversary of the hated Communist wall. Then silence turned to violence as rioters surged to the barricade and attacked a Soviet army car.

"The wall must go," shouted the demonstrators.

Others sent a truck trailer smashing through barriers put up to keep West Berliners away from the wall between East and West Berlin.

West Berlin police, swinging clubs, dispersed the rock throwing demonstrators. One leather jacketed youth was knocked to the ground, where he lay bleeding and unconscious.

The Soviet army car, containing at least one Soviet officer and a driver, was traveling back to East Berlin. It was attacked near the wall's Checkpoint Charlie, a crossing point for foreigners.

A mob of about 500 West Berliners surrounded the car and battered it with their fists and feet. It was heavily dented and a license plate was ripped off.

The Soviets stayed inside the car, which roared off into East Berlin after West Berlin police cleared a path through the jeering mob.

Demonstrators pushed the truck trailer from a parking lot and sent it speeding down the street toward the police barriers. The police jumped aside and the trailer smashed several barriers before stopping some distance from the wall.

The demonstrators raced for the breach in the barriers, but police closed ranks, swung their clubs, and held off the demonstrators.

The wall was built three years ago by the Communists to stop the westward exodus of East Germans.

Since then, 53 East Germans have died trying to scale the wall.

Activation of Plans on Bridge Approach Would Take Two Years

Activation of any plans by the State Department of Public Works to alter 1.2 miles of the approach to the west side of the Mid-Hudson Bridge near Highland would take "at least two more years," according to Mr. Nicholas Sinacori, district engineer for the DPW at Poughkeepsie.

On the heels of a DPW-conducted public hearing on a proposed project to improve conditions at the approach at a current estimated total cost of $3½ million, Thursday night in the Town of Lloyd Hall in Highland.

Some 100 persons, including a number of Newburgh and Orange County residents, turned out to air their views on the proposed state project. Present plans call for relocating of Route 44-55 and elimination of the Highland Traffic Circle with direct access to a nearer approach and the improvement of Route 9W.

While it appeared that the vast majority attending the hearing agreed that there was need for improvement of the approach, opinions varied as to its proposed location, cost and financing.

Sinacori, who conducted the hearing, said that other routes had been considered by the state but had been ruled out for various reasons.

Looks Like Congress Is Staying Reapportionment Arguments Last

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was caught today in a deepening controversy over the Supreme Court's ruling that state legislatures must be reapportioned on a "one-man, one-vote" basis.

In the Senate, opponents of any delay in carrying out the court's ruling threaten drawn-out debate on a delaying proposal that Senate leaders want to attach to the foreign aid bill.

In the House, a tough new bill that would strip the federal courts of any jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases has suddenly been dumped on the speaker's table, where it is ticking like a time bomb.

Didn't Figure It
The House bill, authored by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va., was sprung on the unsuspecting supporters of the court by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., the chairman of the House Rules Committee. He won a 10-4 vote in his committee to send the bill to the House floor before his opponents had time to figure out what was happening.

By the time they did, the Tuck bill was in their laps, and after a close look at it, a lot of them have decided that the Senate proposal looks good.

Would Delay Till 1966
Worked out by Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen in conjunction with the Justice Department, it would permit states to delay reapportionment until Jan. 1, 1966, "in the absence of highly unusual circumstances."

It was the addition of those last seven words to Dirksen's original proposal for an unconditional delay that triggered Smith's action on the Tuck bill.

Tuck's bill, which he called "a simple measure," has only two provisions. One says the Supreme Court shall no longer have the right to review state reapportionment cases coming from any federal court or state supreme court.

In Uncertain State
The other says the federal district courts shall have no jurisdiction over any state reapportionment cases.

In sending it to the House floor the Rules Committee resorted to a little-used procedure that permits it to take any bill away from a House legislative committee — in this case the Judiciary Committee.

The net effect of it all is to leave both houses in a highly uncertain state over all pending legislation and in a gloomy condition over the prospects of adjourning before the Democratic National Convention starts in Atlantic City Aug. 24.

Jury Indicts Sullivan Man On Oval Data

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan grand jury has indicted a businessman and state assembly clerk on charges of lying when he told a grand jury he had no part in an alleged $100,000 bribery scheme to get a license for the Finger Lakes race track near Canandaigua.

Indicted on Perjury
Indicted on perjury charges Thursday was Morris Gold, 44, an assembly clerk and also Republican chairman of the Town of Fallsburgh in Sullivan County.

The alleged bribe was to have been paid to an unidentified state official. Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan of New York County declined to say whether the bribe was paid.

The indictment alleged that the money was put up by James and John Nilon of Philadelphia, onetime advisers to former heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston and operators of the food and drink concession at the Finger Lakes track.

A spokesman for the track said:

"The present management has no knowledge of the particulars of the indictment of Morris Gold. Mr. Gold has never been an officer or director of Canandaigua Enterprises Corp., or Finger Lakes Race Association. The management has always operated Finger Lakes track in a legal and ethical manner."

Bronx Firm Buys Styles Express, Not Staying Here

Sale of Styles Express Inc., 71 TenBroeck Avenue to Bay Motor Express Inc., 150th and Exterior Street, Bronx, was completed this week, it was learned today.

Purchased by the Bronx corporation were the operating business and 35 pieces of rolling stock including tractors and trailers. The business is to continue operating from the Bronx headquarters of Bay Motor, with no branch office here, but with continued use of local telephone service.

James C. Styles, who had served as president of the local corporation, with his son, Glenn P. Styles, as vice president, had operated the business in recent years.

Started in 1927

Styles began operating at Cottekill in 1927. Two trucks were first used by James and his brother, Benjamin L. Styles, and they carried eggs from Rondout Valley farms to New York's metropolitan area in the earlier years.

The business moved to its present Kingston address in 1942, and Glenn Styles joined his father in operation of it in 1962.

Paterson police reported that between 50 and 60 incidents occurred Thursday night in and near the city's predominantly Negro Fourth Ward. They arrested 23 Negroes, one white man and a dozen juveniles.

The unidentified white man allegedly was arrested with a bottle in his hand.

Three policemen and a teenager suffered minor injuries. A police car was "extensively damaged" by rocks and bricks, Mayor Frank X. Graves said.

Graves, who promised to meet street violence with total force, said late Thursday night: "I'm very encouraged at this point. I think they know we mean business — a year in jail for fooling around with a cop."

In Elizabeth, the midnight clash climaxed a night of milling in the streets of the city's multiracial Elizabethport district by Negroes and whites.

Cyprus Awaiting Reply by Ankara

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish Cypriot leader Dr. Fazil Kucuk said today it is "only a matter of days" before his people will be without bread as a result of a Greek Cypriot blockade.

He called upon the Turkish government in Ankara to take immediate political steps to bring pressure on President Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, to raise the blockade.

He told reporters bakeries will be forced to shut down in two days due to lack of kerosene for ovens in the Turkish quarter.

35,000 Face Hunger

"Thirty-five thousand people will start to go hungry. We are bread eaters. Bread is necessary to us," he added. "We do not have communications everywhere and I am certain there are villages even now with absolutely nothing."

"Turkey must find the political means to raise the blockade — I am not asking for any attack."

He said he had communicated the situation fully to the Turkish government and awaited a reply.

Kuchuk charged Makarios "had attempted to subdue us with force and failed. He is now trying other means."

He said he could not predict what his followers might do if the blockade continued.

Observe Cease Fire

The cease-fire brought about by the United Nations Security Council still is being observed by Greek and Turkish Cypriots today, and a U.N. spokesman said no violence had been reported on the island for the third straight day.

Nevertheless, the U.N. commander on the island says the halt in hostilities "is only a breather" and Secretary-General U Thant asked for more soldiers to bolster his peace force.

Thant's request came amid signs that relations between Greece and Turkey were worsening.

Number Not Known

The secretary-general met at his New York headquarters Thursday with delegates of the nine nations that contributed to the 6,200-member Cyprus force. How many soldiers Thant requested was not known.

New contingents presumably would be deployed between Greek and Turkish Cypriots facing each other in villages on the critical northern coast. The Greek Cypriot government is seeking a force limited to 7,000 men.

Special Study on Paying For Sidewalks Is Proposed

A resident of Mary's Avenue near the new Sophie Finn elementary school today placed a different light on the controversy regarding the responsibility of installing sidewalks on that street, and suggested that an impartial committee be named to recommend a fair and just solution.

The letter of G. Knute Beichert, 80 Mary's Avenue, follows:

"Many words have been spoken and printed over the past several years on the issue of curbing and sidewalks in Kingston. In most cases the issue arose in relation to sidewalks and curbing near recently completed school properties.

The safety that good sidewalks afford make this understandable. Why then, all the controversy over their construction? A variety of conditions exist through out the city on curbing and sidewalks. A ride past the schools in most areas of the city will confirm unsafe conditions. Many are the properties on which children walk to school which have no sidewalks and on which curbing is either inadequate or non-existent.

To get at the root of the controversy, we must tie the streets adjacent to both the Sophie Finn and John F. Kennedy Schools into one category.

West Berlin police, swinging clubs, dispersed the rock throwing demonstrators. One leather jacketed youth was knocked to the ground, where he lay bleeding and unconscious.

The Soviet army car, containing at least one Soviet officer and a driver, was traveling back to East Berlin. It was attacked near the wall's Checkpoint Charlie, a crossing point for foreigners.

A mob of about 500 West Berliners surrounded the car and battered it with their fists and feet. It was heavily dented and a license plate was ripped off.

The Soviets stayed inside the car, which roared off into East Berlin after West Berlin police cleared a path through the jeering mob.

Demonstrators pushed the truck trailer from a parking lot and sent it speeding down the street toward the police barriers. The police jumped aside and the trailer smashed several barriers before stopping some distance from the wall.

The demonstrators raced for the breach in the barriers, but police closed ranks, swung their clubs and held off the demonstrators.

The wall was built three years ago by the Communists to stop the westward exodus of East Germans.

Since then, 53 East Germans have died trying to scale the wall.

To pay homage to the dead, the West Berlin government

Activation of Plans on Bridge Approach Would Take Two Years

Activation of any plans by the State Department of Public Works to alter 1.2 miles of the approach to the west side of the Mid-Hudson Bridge near Highland would take "at least two more years," according to M. Nicholas Sinacori, district engineer for the DPW at Poughkeepsie.

On the heels of a DPW-conducted public hearing on a proposed project to improve conditions at the approach at a current estimated total cost of $3½ million, Thursday night in the Town of Lloyd Hall in Highland.

Some 100 persons, including a number of Newburgh and Orange County residents, turned out to air their views on the proposed state project. Present plans call for relocating of Route 44-55 and elimination of the Highland Traffic Circle with direct access to a nearer approach and the improvement of Route 9W.

While it appeared that the vast majority attending the hearing agreed that there was need for improvement of the approach, opinions varied as to its proposed location, cost and financing.

Sinacori, who conducted the hearing, said that other routes had been considered by the state but had been ruled out for various reasons.

John J. Gaffney, former Town of Lloyd supervisor, said he objected to the proposed plan because it would "destroy about a mile of prime business property."

Assemblyman Daniel Becker (R-Orange County), of Newburgh, said he was opposed to the plan until such time as there was "equalization" of the toll bridge rates of both the Mid-Hudson and the Newburgh-Beacon bridges by the State Bridge Authority. The toll for the latter is 50 cents, while that of the Mid-Hudson is 25 cents.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R-Ulster County), of Woodstock, however, said he not only was in favor of the proposed plan but "stands in opposition" to that legislation may be prefiled for the 1965 session of the State Legislature.

In reply to a question by Assemblyman Becker as to how much the Bridge Authority would pay toward the $3½ million cost, and whether there would be any federal funds available, Sinacori said that there were no figures readily available.

Gaffney said he felt that the proposed plan would be "injurious" to the taxpayers because of the some 400 acres consumed by the project, which otherwise could develop into a "fine residential area." He said that through the proposed highway access to the highway would be lost for a distance of about a half-mile south, and with no secondary access roads, service roads would become a "dead end of not much value."

The former town supervisor said that the present circle should still be used, but with improvements rather than "dislocate" present properties, which he said would produce an "area wasteland."

Gaffney said current Bridge Authority figures that the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge is currently the second-best of the five bridges spanning the Hudson River and that there has been a "considerable decline" in traffic across the M-H Bridge since the opening of the N-B Bridge. With proposed improvements in the new Rt. 84, he said, it would thus "eliminate any immediate necessity" for the proposed approach improvement plan.

In a prepared statement read by Bernard S. Kramer, congressional administrative assistant, Assemblyman Wilson said that he was instrumental in having an improved approach road to the M-H Bridge on this side of the river "considered in the first instance."

In the initial stages of consideration and planning, he said, it was not the function of his office to tell either the Bridge Authority or the State DPW where to put the approach

Newburgh, 5 Others Cited In State Water Pollution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Local financial problems and lawsuits are hampering efforts by the New York State government to curb water pollution, the state health commissioner says.

Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham told a visiting committee of the American Medical Association Thursday that the state nevertheless was pressing for corrective action by six communities—Utica, Amsterdam, Newburgh, Watervliet, Seneca Falls and Waverly.

The state's anti-pollution law has plenty of teeth, Ingraham said, but local problems "are delaying its bite."

The association's committee on environmental health was in Albany to study the Health Department's program for controlling water and air pollution.

He praised residents of Canastota for approving construction of an $853,000 sewage-treatment plant and said the facility would meet a department citation against the community "for polluting Canastota Creek and other streams."

Meanwhile, Ingraham said the department was pressing the six other communities in this manner:

Utica — An action has been brought in State Supreme Court "to enforce a long-standing department order that the city stop polluting the Mohawk River."

Amsterdam — The attorney general has been requested to

Special Study on Paying For Sidewalks Is Proposed

A resident of Mary's Avenue near the new Sophie Finn elementary school today placed a different light on the controversy regarding the responsibility of installing sidewalks on that street, and suggested that an impartial committee be named to recommend a fair and just solution.

The letter of G. Knute Beichert, 80 Mary's Avenue, follows: Many words have been spoken and printed over the past several years on the issue of curbing and sidewalks in Kingston. In most cases the issue arose in relation to sidewalks and curbing near recently completed school properties.

The safety that good sidewalks afford make this understandable. Why then, all the controversy over their construction? A variety of conditions exist throughout the city on curbing and sidewalks. A ride past the schools in most areas of the city will confirm unsafe conditions. Many are the properties on which children walk to school which have no sidewalks and on which curbing is either inadequate or non-existent.

To get at the root of the controversy, we must let the streets adjacent to both the Sophie Finn and John F. Kennedy Schools into one category.

The residents of Mary's Avenue

Heads Employe Division in '65 Chest Fund Drive

THOMAS W. HENEBBERY

The Employee Division chairman for this fall's campaign is Thomas W. Heneberry, reports Joseph J. Benjamin, general campaign chairman.

The Employee Division is composed of 125 accounts representing firms, businesses, institutions and agencies employing 15 or more persons. Through this division employees are given the opportunity to support the Chest and its 12 agencies at work by means of payroll deduction.

$77,000 Division Goal

Heneberry is manager, Field Engineering at IBM. A native of Kingston, he graduated from St. Joseph's Grammar School and Kingston High. Heneberry is an active member of the Kingston Lions Club.

Last year, the Employee Division raised $82,000. The division goal for the 1965 campaign, to be conducted this fall will be in excess of $77,000.

"The task of trying to solicit each Ulster County resident at his home is expensive and impossible," says Benjamin. The most efficient method to reach the greatest number is to solicit citizens at work.

"The Employee Division has received top priority for this fall's campaign," Benjamin continues. If the agencies affiliated with the Chest are going to receive the additional dollars necessary to provide the increased demands for service, we must ask those using these programs to support them. This is the task of the Employee Division."

Cuts Soliciting

"Tom Heneberry was appointed Employee Division chairman because we know his leadership will put the division over the top," Benjamin concludes.

Heneberry admits that he accepted the post in an effort to lessen the need to knock on so many doors. "People are fed up," he says, "with so many solicitors ringing their door bell. A successful employee campaign can demonstrate that we can support many major agencies without harassing the contributor."

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Miss International, a girl who'll get $10,000 cash with her crown — will be chosen tonight from 14 foreign beauties and one from San Diego, Calif.

In addition to cash and crown, the winner will receive a year's contract for world-wide personal appearances and a wardrobe.

Rapid Hose Company Opens Bazaar Tonight

Rapid Hose Company No. 1 and Ladies Auxiliary are conducting their ninth annual bazaar tonight and Saturday starting 7 p. m. in front of the firehouse on Hone Street.

The firemen invite all their friends and neighbors to join them in an evening of fun at the various booths and games. Mrs. Grace Kelly, Ladies Auxiliary chairman is in charge of the refreshment stand.

Dem Chief Would Keep Contested Groups Off Roll

WASHINGTON (AP) — John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, says he will recommend that neither of two contesting groups of delegates from Mississippi be placed on the temporary roll of the Democratic National Convention.

Rauh Hails Decision

The decision, disclosed by Bailey Thursday in an interview, was hailed by Joseph L. Rauh Jr., as a skilful line victory for a predominantly Negro group of delegates in what could turn into the hottest fight of the convention.

Rauh, a Washington attorney and delegate to the convention, is seeking recognition for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, a group which was organized this year with the strong support of most civil rights groups working in Mississippi. Rauh is representing the Freedom Democrats.

It is challenging the right to convention seats for the all-white and pro-segregationist regular Democratic party delegates from Mississippi. The Freedom Democrats say the regulars rebuffed all efforts by Negroes to take part in the selection of convention delegates.

Bailey said he will recommend to the national committee, which meets Aug. 22 in Atlantic City to make up the temporary roll for the convention, that all contested delegations be kept off the roll.

Will Press Case

The regular Democrats, headed by State Chairman Bidwell Adam of Gulfport, have largely ignored the insurgent group.

But a Mississippi state judge Wednesday issued an injunction — asked by the state — barring the insurgents from using the name Freedom Democratic party on grounds that one party in the state already was using the name democratic.

Rauh said Thursday the ruling will not keep him from pressing the case before the convention credentials committee, of which he is a member, and, if necessary, on the convention floor.

Mother Arrests Son

An Ellenville woman had her 16-year-old son arrested on a disorderly conduct charge Thursday night after an incident in front of their Berne Road home. Betty Harris had the charge preferred against her son, John. Unable to post $100 bail, the youth was committed to the Ulster County Jail for a hearing Saturday before Peace Justice Herbert Poppel, Town of Wawarsing. Trooper S. Kowalik of the Ellenville substation of State Police, investigated.

Postal Chief Is Optimistic

Two-Year Hunt Continues For $1,551,277 Bandits

By HENRY SUPPLE

BOSTON (AP) — Two years ago today a man in a policeman's uniform raised his hand to halt a small mail truck in historic Plymouth. When the truck stopped it was robbed of $1,551,277 — the biggest cash haul in United States history.

From that day to this, a band of postal inspectors, 60 on the average, has worked for a solution. The robbers, believed to number six, have not been apprehended. And the money has not been found.

He's Optimistic

William F. White, chief postal inspector for New England, has been in charge of the case from the outset. A mild, affable and dedicated man of 55, he still is optimistic the crime will be solved.

Only witnesses to the holdup were the driver of the mail truck, Philip Schena, and the guard who rode at his side, Patrick Barrett.

Their truck was carrying 16 sealed bags of cash from Cape Cod banks, en route to the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston, when it was halted along Route 3 in Plymouth.

Guard Tells Story

Barrett has recounted many times for investigators what happened at dusk on Aug. 14, 1962. His story goes like this:

"We were driving along at a steady pace when a car passed us at about 80 miles an hour. Then a police officer — we thought he was — stepped out on the road and flagged us down." Barrett didn't know the uniformed man was one of the bandits.

After the mail truck had passed Clark Road, which turns off Route 3 into Plymouth, the pseudo policeman placed a detour sign at the junction. The sign diverted traffic from Route 3 down Clark Road and left the gunmen undisturbed as they slid from shrubbery and pointed shotguns at the men on the truck.

Stopped for 'Accident'

Barrett said: "We noticed a couple of cars beside the road and thought there might have been an accident. As soon as we stopped four guys jumped us. They all wore white gloves. 'They leaped into the truck, shoved us in the back of it and said 'Keep quiet; don't say anything.' Then we were tied up."

The robbers drove the mail truck for about 25 miles to the north. Along the way they tossed out the money bags to confederates. About an hour and a half later, the bandits abandoned the truck. Barrett and Schena loosed their bonds and notified police.

White Determined

White, who began his postal career in 1929 as a substitute letter carrier, was appointed chief of the New England district less than a year before the robbery.

In reiterating his belief the gang will be caught some day, White pointed out that the postal service has a record of 99 per cent convictions.

And he added: "We still are determined to bring this case to a successful conclusion."

Florida Man Held For Dutchess Jury

A Florida man was ordered held for action of the Dutchess County Grand Jury Thursday night when he waived preliminary examination on a burglary charge in connection with the theft of several articles Aug. 2 from a Red Hook home.

Samuel Wright, 21, of Plant City, Fla., was ordered committed to the Dutchess County Jail. Investigator Emmet Donahue of the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation at Rhinebeck, charged that Wright entered the home of John Hanko, of Pithers Lane, Red Hook, and took $65 in rare coins, two dozen golf balls, five shirts and five bottles of whiskey.

Biloxi Under Security

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Extensive security measures were imposed today on first grader registration for the first public school desegregation in Mississippi.

The Gulf Coast resort of Biloxi is under federal court orders to desegregate, starting with first grades.

Actual classroom work will not begin until Aug. 31. Security measures included prohibiting newsmen and photographers from the vicinity of the 10 grade schools during registration hours, prohibiting crowds from gathering and keeping traffic moving near the schools.

Bethel Assembly To Hold Final Youth Program

Tonight 7 o'clock will be the final service of the Kid's Crusade conducted at the Bethel Assembly of God by Mrs. Robert Beisel of Allentown, Pa.

The services have been conducted for the past two weeks. Each night a youth was attired in the costume of a foreign country where Assemblies of God missionaries are working. An unusual story from that country was told.

New songs were learned and old hymns of the Christian church revived.

A skit has been prepared for the concluding service tonight demonstrating some of the lessons learned during the sessions. A mission parade will be conducted with each youth attired in costumes and accessories of foreign lands.

Art work completed by the students will be on display. An award will be given for the one bringing the most visitors to the services.

The public may attend. A natural lacquer is obtained from the sap of the Japanese varnish tree.

Maddox Pledges To Push Fight

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Restaurant owner Lester Maddox pledged to continue his court fight against the Civil Rights Act after he closed the doors of his segregated eating place rather than admit Negroes.

"I'd be a fool if I didn't take it to the U.S. Supreme Court," he told about 80 spectators and newsmen gathered outside the Pickrick Thursday. Some employees were cleaning up after lunch inside.

Tearful Announcement

With tears streaming down his cheeks, Maddox said he was confident that "with the help of almighty God and free people everywhere, the court will say to Congress you have violated the Constitution."

"They have killed my business and helped kill the American free enterprise system," he sobbed.

The scene took place shortly after two Atlanta Negro students, Calvin Jones and Gary Robinson, sought service. Maddox met them at the door of the Pickrick.

He called them Communists, then shouted, "You've stolen my business. Get out of my door. You've just put 66 people out of work."

44 Negroes on Payroll

Of the 66 employees at the $500,000 restaurant, 44 are Negroes, he said. All will be taken care of.

as long as "there is a dime in the checkbook," he declared.

A three-judge federal court issued a ruling July 22 directing Maddox to comply with the public accommodations section of the civil rights law. The court set Tuesday, Aug. 11, as the date for compliance.

Maddox posted a sign on the front door of his restaurant Thursday in which he said in part that, "the first Communist-inspired racial agitators to enter this entrance and demand service — will put us out of business."

He didn't explain what he meant. But after the two Negroes appeared — and then were escorted away by police, but not arrested — he slammed the door shut and told the crowd: "My president, my Congress and the Communists have closed my business and ended a childhood dream."

"I don't know what I am going to do. They gave me a citation for contempt of court. I might get a rest in the penitentiary."

This seemed unlikely. Civil contempt proceedings, unlike criminal contempt, are normally aimed only at gaining compliance with a court order.

Visiting Prof. Injured in Fall

A Michigan college professor and his four children had a final day of their Ulster County vacation upset early today when the professor fell some 20 feet from a cliff on Peekamoose Mountain in the Town of Denning.

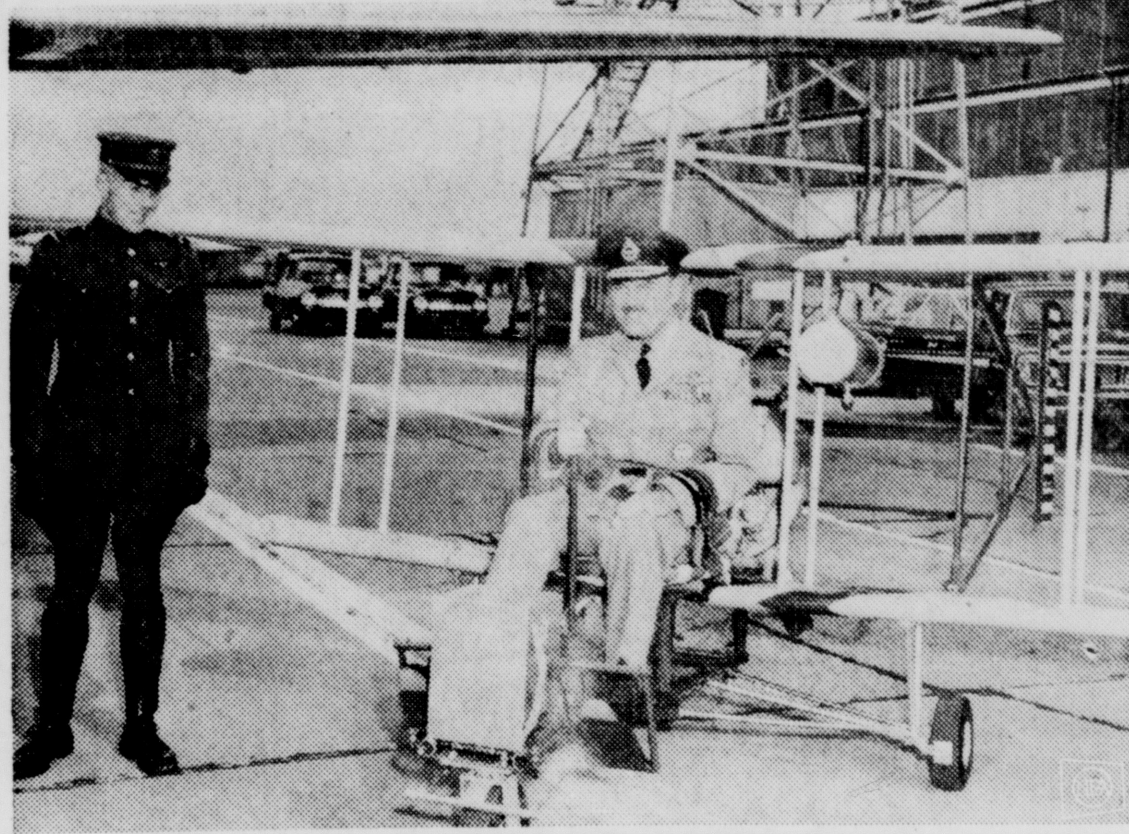

Robert H. Anderson, 39, chemistry professor at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Mich., was taken by Gormley's ambulance to Kingston Hospital for treatment of possible fractures of the left hand and right foot. He was undergoing X-rays while his children stayed at the State Police substation at Lake Katrine to await relatives.

Troopers said Anderson and his children had camped out in sleeping bags and the family car on a mountain cliff near Watson Hollow Road.

Anderson told the troopers he awoke about 3:45 a. m. when it started to rain and decided to lower himself from the 25-foot ledge with a rope. He said he thought he was close enough to the ground, but toppled the remaining 20 feet to the ground. Anderson's 14-year-old son, Dale, walked three miles to notify police of the accident.

Anderson, who was not accompanied on the trip by his wife, told police that he and the children had planned to return to Michigan this morning.

Troopers W. E. Weidemann and John Turk and Game Protector Henry Bernstein investigated.

"HI" PLANE'S NO SPY PLANE — "U 2 1/2," perhaps the ultimate in sub-subsonic planes, is assigned to greet the VIP visitors at Paine, Field, Wash., in place of a "follow-me" jeep. The snappy, more-or-less-scale rear engine biplane works itself into a tizzy reaching 35 m.p.h., and has the same flying ability as a penguin—none. At the controls: Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon, deputy commander in chief, North American Air Defense Command. Tugged out in a World War I ensign's uniform to add a little atmosphere: Capt. Benjamin Nysteen.

No Trace Found Of Mt. Vernon Man in Woods

State Police this morning led about 300 Boy Scouts through the wooded highlands of Breakneck Mountain near Beacon in search for Eric P. Reiss, 51, of Mt. Vernon, who disappeared on a hike Sunday.

The massive search was mapped out after troopers with bloodhounds from Hawthorne and a small unit of Scouts combed the area but failed to find any trace of Reiss.

According to authorities Reiss' wife said she was to pick up her husband near the Breakneck tunnel on Route 9D south of Beacon, but he never arrived. A large crew of men, who were fighting a forest fire in the area joined in the search for the man, believed to have become lost in the mountains.

MIDDLETOWN — Station WALL, Middletown has been acquired by the Straus Broadcasting Group, it was announced here today by R. Peter Straus, president. Transfer of the key Orange County station, which has been operated by the Community Broadcasting Corporation, is subject to approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

"Through station WALL," Straus said, "we are committing ourselves to the economic growth of Greater Middletown and Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and Ulster Counties." Straus Broadcasting Group also includes station WMCA, New York and Radio Press International, the voice news agency serving radio stations in this country overseas.

"This Orange County facility has attracted us for some time," Straus said, "both because of the strong business future we see in the Tri-Town trading area, and because of the special respect which WALL enjoys throughout Greater Middletown. Straus noted that he plans to "spend substantial time in the Greater Middletown area, working with station WALL's present management and establishing contact with business and civic leaders in the county."

"The manufacturing activity, financial institutions and retail trade of Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and Ulster Counties—and the surrounding belt of resort communities — all combine to make WALL Radio a most promising advertising vehicle," Straus added.

Straus, an alumnus of Yale University (B.A. Honors, 1943), is president of the New York Broadcasters Association and a member of the Young Presidents' Organization and the National Planning Association.

Believe Cornell Grad Drowned In Fish Research

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — State Police said all signs indicated that Marc LaBelle, a Cornell University graduate student, had drowned in a nearby pond while doing research in fish biology.

Prolonged dragging operations Thursday at Follensby Junior Pond failed, however, to turn up his body, and darkness forced the troopers to suspend their search until today.

LeBelle, 22, of South Schenectady, was believed to have drowned while trying to recover a drifting canoe.

He was seen last on Wednesday morning when he set out alone in the canoe to continue his research and was reported missing that night when his canoe was found drifting on the pond.

LaBelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. LaBelle, had been awarded a research grant by Cornell University and was working on a thesis on fish biology.

Seek Body in River

HUDSON FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — State Police divers sought to recover from the Hudson River today the body of a 14-year-old boy believed to have drowned while swimming with friends.

Divers plunged into the Hudson Thursday but could not find the body of David Orlick of Hudson Falls. They broke off the search temporarily at dusk.

Troopers said two boys, whom they did not identify, told them David was swept away by the river current while swimming Wednesday afternoon.

The frightened boys at first told David's parents that he had disappeared and that they did not know where he was, police said. On Thursday, however, they reported seeing him carried away in the river.

The district attorney's office is seeking a first-degree murder indictment against the woman in the shooting of Albert Hamel, 38, July 27. The Rensselaer County Grand Jury is scheduled to report its finding Sept. 9th.

Hamel was shot with a rifle in a bedroom of an apartment where Mrs. Hamel lived with her five children.

Maddox Pledges To Push Fight

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Restaurant owner Lester Maddox pledged to continue his court fight against the Civil Rights Act after he closed the doors of his segregated eating place rather than admit Negroes.

"I'd be a fool if I didn't take it to the U.S. Supreme Court," he told about 80 spectators and newsmen gathered outside the Pickrick Thursday. Some employees were cleaning up after lunch inside.

Tearful Announcement

With tears streaming down his cheeks, Maddox said he was confident that "with the help of almighty God and free people everywhere, the court will say to Congress you have violated the Constitution."

"They have killed my business and helped kill the American free enterprise system," he sobbed.

The scene took place shortly after two Atlanta Negro students, Calvin Jones and Gary Robinson, sought service. Maddox met them at the door of the Pickrick.

He called them Communists, then shouted, "You've stolen my business. Get out of my door. You've just put 66 people out of work."

44 Negroes on Payroll

Of the 66 employees at the $500,000 restaurant, 44 are Negroes, he said. All will be taken care of.

as long as "there is a dime in the checkbook," he declared.

A three-judge federal court issued a ruling July 22 directing Maddox to comply with the public accommodations section of the civil rights law. The court set Tuesday, Aug. 11, as the date for compliance.

Maddox posted a sign on the front door of his restaurant Thursday in which he said in part that, "the first Communist-inspired racial agitators to enter this entrance and demand service — will put us out of business."

He didn't explain what he meant. But after the two Negroes appeared — and then were escorted away by police, but not arrested — he slammed the door shut and told the crowd: "My president, my Congress and the Communists have closed my business and ended a childhood dream."

"I don't know what I am going to do. They gave me a citation for contempt of court. I might get a rest in the penitentiary."

This seemed unlikely. Civil contempt proceedings, unlike criminal contempt, are normally aimed only at gaining compliance with a court order.

But the crowd cheered. Maddox closed the Bible he'd been reading from during portions of the talk and the people drifted off.

Visiting Prof. Injured in Fall

A Michigan college professor and his four children had a final day of their Ulster County vacation upset early today when the professor fell some 20 feet from a cliff on Peekamoose Mountain in the Town of Denning.

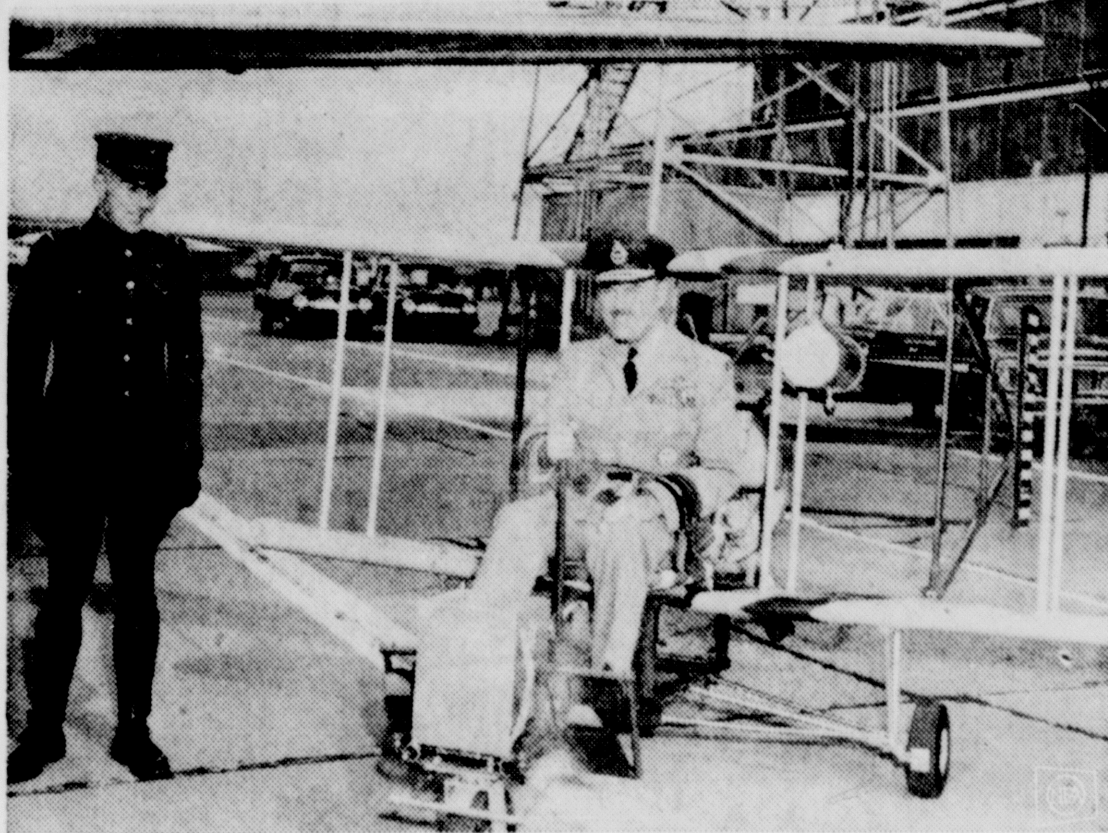

Robert H. Anderson, 39, chemistry professor at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Mich., was taken by Gormley's ambulance to Kingston Hospital for treatment of possible fractures of the left hand and right foot. He was undergoing X-rays while his children stayed at the State Police substation at Lake Katrine to await relatives.

Troopers said Anderson and his children had camped out in sleeping bags and the family car on a mountain cliff near Watson Hollow Road.

LESSON OF TONKIN

It is a requirement and a condition of the nuclear age that nations which have great power must act with corresponding restraint. Those who have nuclear weapons at their command—and thus notably the United States and Soviet Russia—have an obligation to limit response to the force necessary to counteract hostile action.

The United States has thus far admirably measured up to this requirement in Southeast Asia. This applies in general to our role there, and specifically to our conduct under North Vietnamese attack in the Gulf of Tonkin. When U. S. destroyers were attacked, our response was to repulse the attackers. When the attacks were resumed, our response was to hunt them down and to destroy their bases.

Beyond that we should not go. In an outright war, the obvious next step would be to bomb Hanoi and carry the hostilities aggressively into North Vietnam. But this is not a war, in the usual sense of the word. Nor is our position in South Vietnam, however vague when considered in simple military terms, quite as ambiguous as is often supposed.

That position was again clarified by Ambassador Stevenson in his address to the U.N. Security Council. "We want nothing more and nothing less," he said, "than the assured and guaranteed freedom of the people in that area." This is our motive in South Vietnam, and in Southeast Asia generally. And as Stevenson so pointedly noted, when agreements made years ago at Geneva are honored, then peace will return to that troubled region and we will gladly bring our forces back home.

In the meantime, both Stevenson and President Johnson have served notice on the Communists that though our mission is peace we will not shrink from cracking down on aggression. That was the message of the action in the Gulf of Tonkin.

MEXICAN TENSIONS

As the world shrinks, racial tensions seem to be accelerating all around the globe. An example of this is to be found in a University of Arizona survey which drew together psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers and anthropologists from Mexico and the United States. After a study of the emotional problems of a million Mexican-Americans trying to adjust to our mode of living the experts published a report which bares these principal facts:

Anxieties and tensions are less prevalent among transplanted working class Mexicans than among the middle-class emigrants.

School-age children do fairly well until well until they leave home and school and start hunting jobs and competing for employment and for social acceptance among the Anglo-Americans with whom they work.

Among the numerous schizophrenic Mexicans under treatment in Arizona State Hospital, males outnumber females two to one.

PLENTY OF '1964's

The government, close to desperation in its efforts to deal with a rising coin shortage, has begun to close in on a primary cause of the trouble—the coin collectors. It has restricted banks in acceptance of coin collections as collateral for loans, on the grounds that such loans are often used to buy up more coins. And now it plans to "freeze" the dating of new coins until the emergency is over.

The latter move could be the most effective yet made. If coins minted from now on all bear the date "1964", there will soon be so many that their value to coin collectors will be greatly reduced. That is expected to bring an enormous number of coins out of hiding, since perhaps 10 billion or more "1964" coins will be circulating by the end of 1965 in comparison with 3.8 billion dated "1963".

These Days

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

BOTH SIDES ARE USING BOOMERANGS
Both Sides Are Using Boomerangs

This is going to be the damndest political campaign to date. The cross-over seems already to have begun on a large, though numerically uncertain, scale. A poll in Meriden, Conn., a town which sometimes elects a Republican mayor, shows Johnson leading Goldwater by seven to one. But in West Texas, some 40,000 persons on the poll list in nineteen counties have indicated to Republican Congressman Ed Foreman that they are 53.5 per cent for Goldwater and 30.1 per cent for Johnson, with others wishing they could be for someone else.

No polls can be taken as indicative of a final result at this date, for there will be backlashes against backlashes, and backlashes against the backlashes. "Farley's Law," which holds that campaigns are decided by Labor Day, will not hold for this year.

The uncertainties will be compounded by the fact that highly-placed politicians in both camps keep feeding issues to their enemies. Take Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, for one example. Almost everything that Goldwater stands for must be anathema to Morse, but the Oregonian rebel ploughs ahead nonetheless with attacks on the Democratic Administration's foreign aid bill in a way that must delight Republicans. "Foreign aid," says Wayne Morse, "is unproductive because much of it goes for uses that neither build nor develop, and it is misrepresented because in spite of all the official hand-wringing pleas that we help the underprivileged and deprived people of the world, not more than forty per cent of it goes for that purpose." Morse's criticism of the way Dictator Sukarno of Indonesia has flouted the U. S. after accepting its aid will surely turn up this autumn in more than one Republican campaign speech.

Then there is Democratic Senator Tom Dodd's criticism of our failure to make use of the Asiatic members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) in the effort to keep Red China from seizing the Southeast Asian rice bowl. SEATO was formed in 1954 under Secretary of State J. Foster Dulles, who hoped that the members—the U. S., Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand—would all contribute their share of force to prevent Communist infiltration and take-over of free countries. But, says Tom Dodd, "our own primacy in SEATO was used as a brake to prevent the Asian members from taking the measures of collective self-defense which they considered essential."

The result is that in South Vietnam we have been going it alone, fighting what often seems a "white man's war" when that is the last thing that we have intended to do. Republicans will certainly use Tom Dodd's words against his own administration if the war in Southeast Asia is widened without any help coming from other SEATO members.

On the other hand, Republicans have fed the Democrats with the issue of Goldwater's alleged "trigger happiness." The phony issue of White House control of tactical nuclear weapons was hashed and rebashed at San Francisco without any regard to elementary logic. Clearly, no Commander-in-Chief in the White House can function as a Commander-in-Chief if he is prevented from deputizing his authority to cover certain absolutely compelling contingencies. Neither Christian Herter nor Bill Scranton nor anybody else who raised the question of tactical nuclear control bothered to consider what might be the fate of a NATO force in central Europe if the Russians chose to attack with their own tactical atomic weapons without warning. A NATO commander who had been deprived of authority to reply immediately in kind might lose his entire army during the short period required to conduct a hot-line discussion with Washington. It must not be forgotten that atomic weapons, even of the tactical kind, take effect within minutes. And in any event, it is silly to advertise to your opponent what you intend to do if war comes. The enemy should always be left to guess.

Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has already seized upon the issue of the Palace debate over the tactical nuclear issue as an excuse to attack Goldwater as a trigger-happy character. This clearly foreshadows one line the Democratic campaign strategy will take. The fact that it makes no sense at a time when President Johnson, acting with Goldwater-style promptness has ordered the U. S. Seventh Fleet in Asiatic waters to "reply in kind" to enemy attacks is quite beside the point. Nobody can blame Hubert Humphrey for taking Republicans at their own word in a campaign year.

Because the circle of Willis is a part of the arterial system at the base of the brain, an aneurysm in this location is serious. This disease is rare in children and commonest between the ages of 35 and 65. If the victim survives a first hemorrhage from this type of aneurysm, he is very likely to get recurrences. A surgeon can prevent recurrences in some cases by tying off the carotid artery in the neck or going into the brain itself and removing the aneurysm.

Q—I had my oviducts tied off nine years ago. Is it possible for me to function again so that I will become pregnant?

A—It is possible for the tubes spontaneously to become open again after several years of being tied. How this happens is not known but it doesn't occur more than once in about 10,000 cases. Furthermore, attempts to re-establish the tubes by a second operation are almost universally unsuccessful.

Q—What is the difference between linitis plastica and other cancers? Is it inherited? Does it affect all victims the same way?

A—Linitis plastica refers to a leathery tumor of the stomach wall. It grows more slowly than most forms of stomach cancer. Even though more than one member of a family might have this disease, it is not considered hereditary. Any disease may affect different persons differently but, in general, linitis plastica would gradually limit the capacity of the stomach so the victim could eat very little at a time. He would be likely to regurgitate some of the food eaten and, as the disease progressed, there would be a steady loss of weight.

Q—My druggist says we do not get enough iodine in the area where I live. Would iodine tablets help to relieve nervous tension? How many iodine tablets should be taken daily?

A—Although iodine is an essential element, the body needs very little (about one milligram a week). In areas where the water is low in iodine, goiters—not nervous tension—will develop if iodine is not supplied from some other source. Instead of iodine tablets it is better to use iodized salt, which contains one part of sodium iodide to 100,000 parts of table salt.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

We can win the military war in South Viet Nam and lose the country.

That is the conviction I have brought back with me after an intensive tour of the war-torn land which included 120 interviews with tough fighting Viet Cong, Vietnamese, American military and political officers, and village and hamlet chiefs. I spent two weeks getting these firsthand views in critical areas of the country.

The crucial problem is this: I've gone into hamlet after hamlet and asked where the young men are. I've been told they're with the Viet Cong.

The Viet Cong strategy is to take over the countryside and isolate the cities. In major areas south of Saigon they have already done this.

The South Viet Nam government controls the provincial and district capitals and narrow strips along major highways. The government can clear main roads every morning. The Communists come back at night.

In the hamlets, where most of the people of South Viet Nam live, the Communists have almost a monopoly on propaganda and politics. In that vacuum, the Red propaganda line wins.

Government political parties have little membership outside of Saigon and a few major cities. In many parts of the south, local officials have no real contact with the people except to collect taxes or round up conscripts for the army.

lect taxes or round up conscripts for the army.

The ruling South Viet Nam government group in Saigon is military. All province governors are military men except one. The provinces are divided into districts, which are headed by military officers. Most of South Viet Nam's people are farmers. They are suspicious of military men.

Village and hamlet government is weak. By a highly selective process of killing or intimidating the small number of effective village and hamlet chiefs, the Viet Cong have made local government even weaker.

In districts I visited where local officials are weak, corrupt or indifferent, farmers don't cooperate with the government and the local militiamen won't fight. These districts are widespread.

In other districts I've seen, where the Saigon government has sent in strong, graft-busting officials, the citizens sabotage the Communists and the local militiamen fight. But there are few of these districts.

The importance of men and arms brought down from North Viet Nam for use in the war in the south has been seriously underestimated by U. S. military authorities.

Because of the importance of this traffic, the U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam naval facilities (which came while I was traveling on the remote Viet Nam-Cambodia border) had an excellent effect on the Vietnamese. It showed that the U. S. meant business. Many Vietnamese had begun to doubt our determination.

tion. The U. S. action was dramatic and positive. But the war still has to be won in the south. We're not winning.

The situation is far from hopeless. High and low Vietnamese officials, army officers and private citizens—speaking with amazing candor—have outlined at length for me the mistakes they and their colleagues are making, why these mistakes are being made and what they propose to do about them.

They were harsher on themselves than any people I've ever talked to.

Bobby Kennedy's Target: New York or Bay State?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Maybe Bobby Kennedy will not have to worry too much about whether he can run in New York State for a seat in the United States Senate, even if Mayor Robert Wagner withholds his support at the New York State convention next month. For the Attorney General could run in Massachusetts if he so desired. This is because his brother, Sen. Ted Kennedy, who is recuperating from a plane accident, might be willing to step aside for him.

The UPI on Tuesday, in a dispatch from Boston, said: "Asked whether his brother's condition would have any bearing on his political plans, Robert Kennedy said: 'I think it will be clarified when they (the hospital physicians) put out their announcement.'"

A subsequent dispatch yesterday by the UPI quoted Dr. Herbert T. Adams, surgeon-in-chief of the New England Baptist Hospital, as saying that he expected Sen. Kennedy to remain in the hospital, continuously in the rigid "Foster frame" in which he has been confined, until a time five or six months from the date of his injury on June 19. He added that it would be another month afterward before Sen. Kennedy would be able to resume normal activities.

The election this autumn for U. S. Senator in Massachusetts is for a six-year term, as Teddy Kennedy is serving the unexpired Senate term of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy. It has been an open question whether Sen. Ted Kennedy—who was elected in 1962—will be able to participate in his own campaign. Certainly it would be easier for Attorney General Kennedy to win a Senate seat from Massachusetts than it would be for him to defeat Sen. Kenneth Keating in New York State. So everything depends on how Teddy Kennedy is feeling, and whether he would be willing to give up his chance for re-election to the Senate now and try again at a later date, as he is today only 32 years old, while Bobby is approaching his 39th birthday.

In Massachusetts, moreover, the naming of Democratic candidates is done by a state convention which the Kennedy forces pretty well control, and there would be no doubt about the willingness of leaders there to name the Attorney General, whereas New York State might present some difficulties. Several of the local Democratic leaders already are voicing opposition to the nomination of someone who hasn't been a long-time resident of the state.

One reason perhaps for Mayor Wagner's hesitancy to throw his support to the Attorney General, is that a considerable measure of control of the Democratic party in New York State is at present in the Mayor's hands, whereas if Bobby Kennedy became Senator, the latter would have quite an influence in New York State politics and would share the party leadership with Mr. Wagner.

The Republicans also would have a real dilemma on their hands if Bobby Kennedy gets the nomination from the New York State convention. Sen. Keating already faces opposition from the Conservative party, and there is talk that Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce may run on that ticket. Also, Mr. Keating hasn't announced yet whether or not he will support Sen. Goldwater, the Republican Presidential nominee.

If the Attorney General entered the contest as the Democratic nominee, it would appear that the Republicans would have to forget their current differences and unite to prevent Bobby Kennedy from becoming Senator from New York. Much as many of the regular Republicans who like Goldwater are irritated over Mr. Keating's reluctance to endorse the national ticket, there is no doubt that all the Republican leaders would unite in a common effort to defeat Bobby Kennedy and reelect Mr. Keating. It might, however, be a close race.

So if the Attorney General really wants to be sure of a seat and can persuade his younger brother to step aside, he can avoid a risky battle in New York State and at the same time get a chance to represent his native state—which he previously has listed as his legal residence. He could thus dispose, too, of all the arguments he would have to meet about his unfamiliarity with the problems of the Empire State.

The Attorney General, who is a "prudent" man and by no means "impulsive," is obviously taking plenty of time to make up his mind whether to try to run for the Senate from New York or from Massachusetts.

Quick Quiz

Q—When is it permissible to place a pennant above the United States flag?

A—Only a church pennant may be flown above the flag during services conducted by naval chaplains at sea.

Q—What is the origin of the 21-gun salute?

A—One theory maintains that the 21 guns commemorate the year 1776, the year of America's Declaration of Independence. Thus, shots are supposedly sometimes fired in the sequence one, seven, seven, six.

LESSON OF TONKIN

It is a requirement and a condition of the nuclear age that nations which have great power must act with corresponding restraint. Those who have nuclear weapons at their command—and thus notably the United States and Soviet Russia—have an obligation to limit response to the force necessary to counteract hostile action.

The United States has thus far admirably measured up to this requirement in Southeast Asia. This applies in general to our role there, and specifically to our conduct under North Vietnamese attack in the Gulf of Tonkin. When U. S. destroyers were attacked, our response was to repulse the attackers. When the attacks were resumed, our response was to hunt them down and to destroy their bases.

Beyond that we should not go. In an outright war, the obvious next step would be to bomb Hanoi and carry the hostilities aggressively into North Vietnam. But this is not a war, in the usual sense of the word. Nor is our position in South Vietnam, however vague when considered in simple military terms, quite as ambiguous as is often supposed.

That position was again clarified by Ambassador Stevenson in his address to the U.N. Security Council. "We want nothing more and nothing less," he said, "than the assured and guaranteed freedom of the people in that area." This is our motive in South Vietnam, and in Southeast Asia generally. And as Stevenson so pointedly noted, when agreements made years ago at Geneva are honored, then peace will return to that troubled region and we will gladly bring our forces back home.

In the meantime, both Stevenson and President Johnson have served notice on the Communists that though our mission is peace we will not shrink from cracking down on aggression. That was the message of the action in the Gulf of Tonkin.

MEXICAN TENSIONS

As the world shrinks, racial tensions seem to be accelerating all around the globe. An example of this is to be found in a University of Arizona survey which drew together psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers and anthropologists from Mexico and the United States. After a study of the emotional problems of a million Mexican-Americans trying to adjust to our mode of living the experts published a report which bares these principal facts:

Anxieties and tensions are less prevalent among transplanted working class Mexicans than among the middle-class emigrants.

School-age children do fairly well until well until they leave home and school and start hunting jobs and competing for employment and for social acceptance among the Anglo-Americans with whom they work.

Among the numerous schizophrenic Mexicans under treatment in Arizona State Hospital, males outnumber females two to one. Alcoholism afflicts fewer Mexican-Americans than either Anglo-Americans or Negroes in the United States population.

PLENTY OF '1964's

The government, close to desperation in its efforts to deal with a rising coin shortage, has begun to close in on a primary cause of the trouble—the coin collectors. It has restricted banks in acceptance of coin collections as collateral for loans, on the grounds that such loans are often used to buy up more coins. And now it plans to "freeze" the dating of new coins until the emergency is over.

The latter move could be the most effective yet made. If coins minted from now on all bear the date "1964", there will soon be so many that their value to coin collectors will be greatly reduced. That is expected to bring an enormous number of coins out of hiding, since perhaps 10 billion or more "1964" coins will be circulating by the end of 1965 in comparison with 3.8 billion dated "1963".

'These Days

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

BOTH SIDES ARE USING BOOMERANGS
Both Sides Are Using Boomerangs

This is going to be the damndest political campaign to date. The cross-overs seem already to have begun on a large, though numerically uncertain, scale. A poll in Meriden, Conn., a town which sometimes elects a Republican mayor, shows Johnson leading Goldwater by seven to one. But in West Texas, some 40,000 persons on the poll tax list in nineteen counties have indicated to Republican Congressman Ed Foreman that they are 53.3 per cent for Goldwater and 30.1 per cent for Johnson, with others wishing they could be for someone else.

No polls can be taken as indicative of a final result at this date, for there will be backlashes against backlashes, and backlashes against the backlashes to the backlashes. "Farley's Law," which holds that campaigns are decided by Labor Day, will not hold for this year.

The uncertainties will be compounded by the fact that highly-placed politicians in both camps fear feeding issues to their enemies. Take Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, for one example. Almost everything that Goldwater stands for must be anathema to Morse, but the Oregonian rebel ploughs ahead nonetheless with attacks on the Democratic Administration's foreign aid bill in a way that must delight Republicans. "Foreign aid," says Wayne Morse, "is unproductive because much of it goes for uses that neither build nor develop; and it is misrepresented because in spite of all the official hard-wrangling pleas that we help the underprivileged and deprived people of the world, not more than forty per cent of it goes for that purpose." Morse's criticism of the way Dictator Sukarno of Indonesia has flouted the U. S. after accepting its aid will surely turn up this autumn in more than one Republican campaign speech.

Then there is Democratic Senator Tom Dodd's criticism of our failure to make use of the Asiatic members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) in the effort to keep Red China from seizing the Southeast Asian rice bowl. SEATO was formed in 1954 under Secretary of State J. Foster Dulles, who hoped that the members—the U. S., Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan and Thailand—would all contribute their share of force to prevent Communist infiltration and take-over of free countries. But, says Tom Dodd, "our own primacy in SEATO was used as a brake to prevent the Asian members from taking the measures of collective self-defense which they considered essential."

The result is that in South Vietnam we have been going it alone, fighting what often seems a "white man's war" when that is the last thing that we have intended to do. Republicans will certainly use Tom Dodd's words against his own administration if the war in Southeast Asia is widened without any help coming from other SEATO members.

On the other hand, Republicans have fed the Democrats with the issue of Goldwater's alleged "trigger happiness." The phony issue of White House control of tactical nuclear weapons has been hashed and rehearsed at San Francisco without any regard to elementary logic. Clearly, no Commander-in-Chief in the White House can function as a Commander-in-Chief if he is prevented from deputizing his authority to cover certain absolutely compelling contingencies. Neither Christian Herter nor Bill Scranton nor anybody else who raised the question of tactical nuclear control bothered to consider what might be the fate of a NATO force in central Europe if the Russians chose to attack with their own tactical atomic weapons without warning. A NATO commander who had been deprived of authority to reply immediately in kind might lose his entire army during the short period required to conduct a hot-line discussion with Washington. It must not be forgotten that atomic weapons, even of the tactical kind, take effect within minutes. And in any event, it is silly to advertise to your opponent what you intend to do if war comes. The enemy should always be left to guess.

Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has already seized upon the Cow Palace debate over the tactical nuclear issue as an excuse to attack Goldwater as a trigger-happy character. This clearly foreshadows one line the Democratic campaign strategy will take. The fact that it makes no sense at a time when President Johnson, acting with Goldwater-style promptness has ordered the U. S. Seventh Fleet in Asiatic waters to "reply in kind" to enemy attacks is quite beside the point. Nobody can blame Hubert Humphrey for taking Republicans at their own word in a campaign year.

"Asked whether his brother's condition would have any bearing on his political plans, Robert Kennedy said: 'I think it will be clarified when they (the hospital physicians) put out their announcement.'"

A subsequent dispatch yesterday by the UPI quoted Dr. Herbert T. Adams, surgeon-in-chief of the New England Baptist Hospital, as saying that he expected Sen. Kennedy to remain in the hospital, continuously in the rigid "Foster frame" in which he has been confined, until a time five or six months from the date of his injury on June 19. He added that it would be another month afterward before Sen. Kennedy would be able to resume normal activities.

The election this autumn for U. S. Senator in Massachusetts is for a six-year term, as Teddy Kennedy is serving the unexpired Senate term of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy. It has been an open question whether Sen. Ted Kennedy—who was elected in 1962—will be able to participate in his own campaign. Certainly it would be easier for Attorney General Kennedy to win a Senate seat from Massachusetts than it would be for him to defeat Sen. Kenneth Keating in New York State. So everything depends on how Teddy Kennedy is feeling and whether he would be willing to give up his chance for re-election to the Senate now and try again at a later date, as he is today only 32 years old, while Bobby is approaching his 39th birthday.

In Massachusetts, moreover, the naming of Democratic candidates is done by a state convention which the Kennedy forces pretty well control, and there would be no doubt about the willingness of leaders there to name the Attorney General, whereas New York State might present some difficulties. Several of the local Democratic leaders already are voicing opposition to the nomination of someone who hasn't been a long-time resident of the state.

One reason perhaps for Mayor Wagner's hesitancy to throw his support to the Attorney General, is that a considerable measure of control of the Democratic party in New York State is at present in the Mayor's hands, whereas if Bobby Kennedy became Senator, the latter would have quite an influence in New York State politics and would share the party leadership with Mr. Wagner.

The Republicans also would have a real dilemma on their hands if Bobby Kennedy gets the nomination from the New York State convention. Sen. Keating already faces opposition from the Conservative party, and there is talk that Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce may run on that ticket. Also, Mr. Keating hasn't announced yet whether or not he will support Sen. Goldwater, the Republican Presidential nominee.

If the Attorney General entered the contest as the Democratic nominee, it would appear that the Republicans would have to forget their current differences and unite to prevent Bobby Kennedy from becoming Senator from New York. Much as many of the regular Republicans who like Goldwater are irritated over Mr. Keating's reluctance to endorse the national ticket, there is no doubt that all the Republican leaders would unite in a common effort to defeat Bobby Kennedy and reelect Mr. Keating. It might, however, be a close race.

So if the Attorney General really wants to be sure of a seat and can persuade his younger brother to step aside he can avoid a risky battle in New York State and at the same time get a chance to represent his native state—which he previously has listed as his legal residence. He could thus dispose, too, of all the arguments he would have to meet about his unfamiliarity with the problems of the Empire State.

The Attorney General, who is a "prudent" man and by no means "impulsive," is obviously taking plenty of time to make up his mind whether to try to run for the Senate from New York or from Massachusetts. (Copyright, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He is a hipless man with Japanese teeth and a dark, good-looking face which appears to have been slept in. His name is Harold Conrad and he promoted the last four or five world's heavyweight fights. Conrad is a veteran reporter—press agency is merely a concession to economics—and he shepherds all the great sportswriters when a big fight is due.

He was having dinner at the Castaways in Miami Beach, and he never looks at food because he is trained to keep an eye on the exit. Joe Hart, the owner of the Castaways, was talking fights and I walked into the oriental dining room and pulled up a chair. I admire Conrad because he is better than the people who employ him.

Boxing has been in a coma since the Liston-Clay fight and I wanted to know if he was in Miami Beach to promote another match. He took a knife and did a laparotomy on a steak. "Not on your life," he said. "Sonny and Cassius have signed for a match, but nobody knows where they're going to hold it."

"Try a phone booth," I said. He nodded and smiled the faded Broadway smile. "You another one who thinks boxing is dead?" he said. No, I'm not. As a fight fan who has been looking at ugly faces since the Dempsey-Carpenter dance at Boyle's Thirty Acres, I have a small interest in the boos who think that a short left hook buys yachts and Cadillacs.

"Have a bowl of Chinese matzoh ball soup," Hart said. Conrad chewed the steak slowly. "The fight game is business," he said. "No matter what you say, business is good."

"I know," I said. He shrugged and drank a half glass of cold beer. "Look," he said, "you remember the first Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philly? A million dollar game, right? You call the Clay-Liston fight a bust and it grosses four million. 'Who's kidding who?'"

"Whom," I said. Joe Hart rolled a pair of ivory chopsticks between his fingers. "I don't know why everybody thinks this is a Chinese joint. Maybe you can tell me." Isn't it? I said, looking around at the pagodas, the Chinese junk floating in the bay, the moat, and the Chinese costumes on the waitresses. "No," he said. "It's Japanese. Not Chinese. We only serve Chink food once a week."

"Look at it this way," Conrad said slowly and patiently. "The fight is owned by International Promotion Inc. The company is really three brothers, Bob and Jack and Jim Nilon, guys who are caterers in Philly. Jack also owns ten per cent of Liston, which is like owning ten per cent of a solid gold ten horn. It was Jack who tried to make a good citizen out of Sonny."

"My place is segregated," Hart said. I shook my head. "Liston couldn't be a good citizen in a strait-jacket in Danmora," I said. He and Clay have a combined emotional age of ten. I saw Clay when he fought the last Olympics at Chris Dundee's place. Know what I think? I think the kid is in love with himself. He keeps telling the world that he's too pretty to be hurt."

Conrad pushed the plate away. The peas were still on it. "You talk," he said, "but you don't say nothing. A fighter is a commodity, nothing more. He can be sold, or he can't. The public will buy another fight between Clay and Liston because who else you got? Doug Jones lost a close fight to Clay. Floyd Patterson can fight, but how many times can a man get off the deck? Henry Cooper, the British champ, ranks eighth."

"The Heavyweight division," I said, "is as dead as the Flyweight." He finished his beer and ordered another. "Don't tell Mara," he said. That's his pretty wife. "It's Cassius and Sonny or nobody," Conrad said. "And no matter how it goes, it's four million, mostly in closed-circuit television. A fight today doesn't even need a crowd."

"I know," I said. "I remember when Bob MacDonal charged $250 for a ringside seat to watch Liston sit on his stool. The Convention Hall held 14,000 and only 8,000 showed up." Conrad peeled off a bill and watched the waitress add the tab.

Still, the sit-down grossed $4,000,000. The theatre owners got half of whatever came in on television. The net, as I recall, was $2,140,000. Clay got $420,000, and his Louisville backers took half. Taxes took a big bite of what was left. Liston got $850,000, gave ten per cent to Jack Nilon, paid off the unsavory advisers he dismissed a few years ago, and paid Uncle Sam eighty per cent of what was left.

"You think people will pay for another fight," Joe Hart said. Conrad drummed the table and smiled forgivingly. "Five cities want it right now," he said. "Louisville, Baltimore, Philly, Pittsburgh and Vegas."

"You going to promote it for October?" I said. Conrad took his change, dropped a tip, and stood. "Yes," he said. "October." An old Chinese chef came out to whisper to Joe Hart. The man had as many wrinkles as the Yangtze river. I couldn't help but overhear a few of the words.

"That Chinese," I said, "is talking in Yiddish." Hart beamed. "Old Confucius joke," he said. "He thinks I'm teaching him to speak English." Copyright, 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK (AP)—Congress is moving to fence in American investors from the greener pastures overseas. Or, from the foreigner's point of view, it is curbing access to the lower long-term interest rates prevailing in the United States.

Washington wants to keep American dollars at work at home rather than grabbing off the higher yield which foreign industrial and financial investments have offered.

Would Block Outflow

The method adopted is to tax purchases by Americans from foreigners of foreign securities, plus a threat to tax commercial loans by U.S. banks to foreigners if these should multiply. Americans can still buy, free of tax, such securities from their fellow citizens who may already own them.

The purpose is to prevent another big outflow of U.S. investment money abroad such as threatened U.S. dollar and gold reserves in the spring of 1963.

Actually the outflow was pretty well halted that summer by the introduction of the interest equalization tax measure which Congress seems ready to pass. Its provisions are retroactive to stock purchases since July 1963.

And this apparently kept most investors from buying the for-ign stocks and bonds pending congressional action. A perhaps equally potent deterrent was the weakness in European stock markets since then. Foreign investments have not looked as tempting, tax or not.

Spread Is Growing

But interest rates have been rising in Western Europe. And the spread between yields on loans and investments made here and those made overseas is growing. This is what the proposed law, as shaped by Senate-House conferees, is designed to counteract.

American bankers active in international finance, as well as dealers of such securities, have been critical of the proposed tax.

They would prefer a free international capital market as making for a healthier world situation. They also contend that the returns on American investments abroad are a big help toward balancing U.S. international payments. And the bankers hold that when other nations sell bonds here they generally use the money, directly or indirectly, to buy U.S. goods and services. Thus trade follows credit.

But Congress hasn't been moved by the bankers' arguments. Now attention will switch to seeing how effective the next tax will be.

Some think Americans will buy anyway and pay the tax.

The majority, including Congress, apparently expects the securities tax to be an effective weapon in the long fight to balance the outflow and inflow of money. The winner would be the Yankee dollar's good reputation and therefore the nation's gold reserves.

Allot $137,573 As Ulster's Part Of Per Capita Aid

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced the distribution of $137,573.88 as per capita assistance to Ulster County.

A total of $11,542,733.19 has been distributed to the cities, towns and villages of the State. This payment is the second quarterly installment in the State's 1964-65 fiscal year.

Unlike other types of state aid, which are granted for a specific purpose (such as education, highways and health) the per capita aid can be used for any general municipal purpose.

The payment is allocated to the local units of government on a per capita basis. Each village receives annually the sum of $6.75 times the amount of its population, towns receive $3.55 for each inhabitant and villages $3 for each inhabitant.

Critical of Cornell Station Closing

7th Ward Alderman Fears Fire Tragedy Downtown

Alderman Edward Norion (D) Seventh Ward, as he had held at a recent Common Council meeting, in a statement today, claims that the present city administration is neglecting the downtown area, and feels that closing of Cornell Fire Station brings a "serious situation."

Downtown, he noted, has many wooden, older type homes, "which lend themselves more easily to the dangers of fire," and he holds that traffic congestion, plus the "number and extent of runs to Rondout should have been taken into consideration, before closing the downtown station."

In the event of a "simultaneous fire situation," he said,

Enrollments Due To Top 4 Million In N. Y. 1st Time

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Total enrollments in the public and private schools of New York State are expected to climb past 4 million next month for the first time in the state's history.

As far as the public schools are concerned, the continuing increase will require greater expenditure of tax funds for school buildings, additional teachers and more state aid.

These forecasts of enrollments for the new school year were issued Thursday by the State Education Department.

Public Schools — Up 80,000 from last year's 3,051,000 enrollment to a record high of 3,130,000.

Private Schools — Up 15,000 from last year's 885,000 to a record total of 900,000.

Most of the private-school pupils attend Roman Catholic parochial schools.

The combined enrollment of 4,030,000 compares with 3,936,000 in the past school year.

The department also forecast a major increase in enrollments in the 58 units of the State University—a 10,500 gain to a record high of 87,000.

The year's growth in public school enrollments will require a $70-million increase in state aid for education, which is allotted by a formula based largely on attendance. The state now distributes slightly more than $1 billion a year in school aid.

Based on a standard-sized classroom of 25 pupils, the 80,000 added enrollment would appear to require 3,200 more classrooms.

The State University's operating budget, now $130 million a year, also will have to be increased to accommodate its increasing enrollment. The university now is in the midst of a $1-billion construction program to expand its facilities.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has tacked to the foreign aid bill a ban on any aid to Indonesia.

Then, after adding another amendment also opposed by the administration — authority to use U.S. foreign currencies in Poland to repair a cemetery in Warsaw — it settled down Thursday to what may be a protracted debate over legislative reapportionment.

Until the scrap over the purely domestic issue is settled, the foreign aid authorization will have to be quickly passed to Congress at the end of next week may go up in smoke.

The inflexible prohibition against any assistance to Indonesia — and suspension of the training of Indonesian military and police personnel at American bases — was offered by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex.

He was backed by his leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who quoted Indonesian President Sukarno as having said "the United States can go to hell with its aid."

Tower said his amendment was precipitated by Indonesia's recent recognition of Communist North Viet Nam. The Senate gave him a 62-28 victory.

The cemetery amendment was offered by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and opposed both by Dirksen and the manager of the $1.2-billion aid bill, Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

Dodd said "tens of thousands of Polish resistance fighters" were buried in the cemetery in 1944. The Senate supported him 51 to 37 despite Fulbright's contention that the United States can hardly maintain cemeteries in all nations in which Congress members' constituents have personal ties or interests.

On the diplomatic front, the government of Greece rejected a Turkish appeal for direct talks. Premier George Papandreu said the problem should be taken to the U.N. General Assembly if peace efforts under way at Geneva fail.

Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu had sent a message to Papandreu urging that negotiations begin as soon as possible.

In a message Thursday to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, Inonu asked the Soviet leader to use his influence to guide the Cyprus government into a course more "legal, humane and peaceful."

Word on Lights

A communication from J. Burch McMorran, State superintendent of Public Works, regarding the county's request for the installation of lights at the traffic circle at the Thruway Exit 19 Interchange, informed the board that everything possible is being done to expedite this project.

McMorran stated that District Engineer M. Nicholas Sinacori has submitted preliminary project data for approval. He informed the board that the policy of the State DPW in regard to lighting of highways has of necessity been that of obtaining agreement from the local government that they will furnish the power and the maintenance. The state designs and installs the lighting. Installation is financed by construction funds, McMorran said. He noted that the power and the maintenance would be "a continuing drain on our already strained maintenance budget."

In reply to a request by the board, recommending that the State Conservation Department take necessary measures to insure a complete program of gypsy moth control for Ulster County in the Spring of 1965, William D. Mulholland, assistant commissioner for Lands and Forests in a communication read and filed last night, said: "The Conservation Department, within limits of available manpower, will survey the forested area of Ulster County before the Spring of 1965 to locate areas where the population of gypsy moth egg masses are sufficient to indicate the need for treatment in 1965 to prevent

Reilly Stricken, Is Reported as Poor

Peace Justice Arthur Reilly, of the Town of Ulster, stricken early today in his home at Cutler Hill, Eddyville, was reported in poor condition this afternoon in Benedictine Hospital.

Reilly, a retired member of the New York State Police, was taken to the hospital about 2:10 a. m. by Doctors' ambulance attendants, who administered oxygen en route. Justice Reilly was a member of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation at the time of his retirement and currently was employed by Miron Building Products of Kingston.

introduce legislation to designate Highway 587 as George F. Chandler Drive, was unanimously approved. The Common Council recently took similar action on suggestion of Assemblyman Wilson, who also sent a request to the supervisors.

The resolution by Rapp termed Col. Chandler "one of the truly outstanding citizens" of Ulster County, and noted his long list of accomplishments and services to his city, county, state and nation, which includes 32 years of active service of active military service in Ulster County.

The resolution further named Colonel Chandler's "service as Surgeon-in-Chief of the Kingston Hospital, service in the United States Army as a Colonel during World War I, service as a member of the New York State Crime Commission, participation in numerous civic activities in the area including charter membership in the Kingston Rotary Club and what is perhaps his greatest contribution, the founding of the New York State Police and service as that organization's first superintendent from 1917 to 1924."

Three Appointed

Chairman Williams appointed three supervisors to succeed him in office in the event of disaster. The action was taken under Local Law 1 (1963) which calls for department heads to name successors to insure continuity of government. The chairman named—in the following order—Supervisor Robert F. Phinney, (11th Ward, city), Supervisor Charles Relyea, Town of Hurley, and Supervisor James A. Rapp (1st Ward, city).

The Board authorized the issuance and sale of $35,000 of insurance notes for the acquisition of rights-of-way needed for the Lucas Avenue Turnpike project in the towns of Hurley, Rosendale, Marlborough and Rochester. The $35,000 represents part of the County Road 58 $100,000 capital note authorized by resolution on Aug. 8, 1963 for the land acquisition.

Supervisor John C. Quimby, Town of Marlborough, asked for a report on the Community College progress, and said no report has been made this year. He contended there has been no activity by the committee.

In rebuttal, Supervisor Rapp, member of the committee, stated there had been a report of the drawing up of the master plan for the college and the necessary preliminary engineering work. He also said the Board had authorized $20,000 for that work.

Must Develop Master Plan

Supervisor Alexander J. Banno, Town of Ulster, also a committee member, said the committee has worked as fast as possible and noted that until the master plan is developed and approved by the State Department of Education, no further work can be done at the college site.

Chairman Williams reapportioned two members to the County Mental Health Board from terms of two years each. They are the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, who resides at 2 President's Place, and Dr. Elbert C. MacFadden Jr., of 98 Fair Street.

A resolution calling for a $20,000 capital note to provide for repairs involving plumbing, heating and electrical work at the county-owned building at 74 John Street, was withdrawn prior to last night's meeting. It was said the resolution will be reworded and submitted at the next meeting of the Board.

Mayor Not Ruling Out Stairway at School Locale

Mayor John J. Schwenk's statement Thursday dealing with proposed construction of a stairway, instead of installing new sidewalks and curbs in the area of the new John F. Kennedy School in the Fifth Ward, was not meant to rule out the possibility of again considering the stairway proposal.

Former Fifth Ward Alderman Frank A. Adams yesterday proposed building a stairway from a point along Yeomans Street up a slope so that the upper end terminate in Hasbrouck Park.

Mayor Schwenk, in his statement, said the idea of a stairway had been considered months ago, but was not taken then considered as desirable as sidewalks on the north side of Delaware Avenue.

However, the mayor said, "he would be glad to have Mr. Adams come to my office and explain his proposal further, as his idea may be slightly different," and it would be impossible to form the first, brief description.

Teacher Facing 2 New Charges, Fails to Appear

Peace Justice George Dietz, Town of Poughkeepsie, issued a warrant for the arrest of a Poughkeepsie school teacher on two new criminal charges when the teacher failed to appear Thursday to answer a charge of impersonating an officer.

Police said that Thomas North, 46, of 36 Raymond Avenue, faces new charges of issuing a fraudulent $100 check as bail money on the original charge, and for jumping bail.

North was arrested Aug. 2 on a charge of impersonating a police officer when he allegedly stopped Joan Barranger, of Salt Point Road, on Dutchess Turnpike, and demanded to see her driver's license. She told police that when she asked him for identification he tore off half of her license, returned the other half to her and left. Police arrested North a short time later on Main Street, where he was identified by Miss Barranger as the man who stopped her.

North denied the charge at his arraignment before Dietz. He was confined to jail in lieu of $500 bail. He later wrote a check in the amount of $100 when bail was reduced to that amount, but police said that check proved fraudulent. When North failed to appear before Justice Dietz for the adjourned hearing date Thursday, the judge issued warrants charging North with the bad check and bail-jumping charges.

CBS Makes It Official, TV For Pay Looms

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System formally announced today purchase of the New York Yankees in what could pave the way for revolutionary changes in the promotion of baseball.

Approval for entry of the television and radio network into direct ownership of baseball's dominant team of the last 40 years already has been given by three-fourths of the American League clubs.

One possibility of CBS ownership of the Yankees might be pay television in New York City, potentially the world's richest market.

The total assets of the Yankees were fixed at $14 million and CBS paid $11.2 million for an 80 per cent controlling interest with the right to purchase the balance within five years.

The effective date of the purchase will be Nov. 2.

Meanwhile, a storm of controversy swirled up both in baseball circles and in Congress.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics and Arthur C. Allyn, president of the Chicago White Sox, sharply criticized the handling of the sale.

In Washington, a well placed source said the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee would undoubtedly check to determine if there was anything about the sale that would merit second thoughts on pending legislation to exempt professional clubs from provisions of the Antitrust Act.

As owners of the Yanks, CBS presumably would gain full voting rights in American and major league matters.

Segni Improves

ROME (AP) — President Antonio Segni, stricken a week ago with a cerebral stroke, showed further improvement today, a medical bulletin said.

Doctors said the 73-year-old political leader was able to feed himself for the first time since suffering the stroke, which paralyzed his right side.

The bulletin from the presidential palace said Segni's temperature, pulse and breathing were normal.

7th Ward Alderman Fears Fire Tragedy Downtown

Alderman Edward Norton (D) Seventh Ward, as he had held at a recent Common Council meeting, in a statement today, claims that the present city administration is neglecting the downtown area, and feels that closing of Cornell Fire Station brings a "serious situation."

Downtown, he noted, has many wooden, older type homes, "which lend themselves more easily to the dangers of fire," and he holds that traffic congestion, plus the "number and extent of runs to Rondout should have been taken into consideration, before closing the downtown station."

In the event of a "simultaneous fire situation," he said,

Enrollments Due To Top 4 Million In N. Y. 1st Time

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Total enrollments in the public and private schools of New York State are expected to climb past 4 million next month for the first time in the state's history.

As far as the public schools are concerned, the continuing increase will require greater expenditure of tax funds for school buildings, additional teachers and more state aid.

These forecasts of enrollments for the new school year were issued Thursday by the State Education Department.

Public Schools — Up 80,000 from last year's 3,951,000 enrollment to a record high of 4,031,000.

Private Schools — Up 15,000 from last year's 885,000 to a record total of 899,000.

Most of the private-school pupils attend Roman Catholic parochial schools.

The combined enrollment of 4,030,000 compares with 3,936,000 in the past school year.

The department also forecast a major increase in enrollments in the 58 units of the State University—a 10,500 gain to a record high of 87,000.

The year's growth in public school enrollments will require a $70-million increase in state aid for education, which is allotted by a formula based largely on attendance. The state now distributes slightly more than $1 billion a year in school aid.

Based on a standard-sized classroom of 25 pupils, the 80,000 added enrollment would appear to require 3,200 more classrooms.

The State University's operating budget, now $130 million a year, also will have to be increased to accommodate its increasing enrollment. The university now is in the midst of a $1-billion construction program to expand its facilities.

Flights Halted

The Security Council intervened and recommended a halt to all military flights. A shaky cease-fire has been in effect since Tuesday.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian commander of the peace force, said after an inspection of the Kokkina area that the lull "is only a breather."

Thimayya's visit was in line with U.N. efforts to strengthen its buffer force between the warring factions.

Reilly Stricken, Is Reported as Poor

Peace Justice Arthur Reilly, of the Town of Ulster, stricken early today in his home at Cutler Hill, Eddyville, was reported in poor condition this afternoon in Benedictine Hospital.

Reilly, a retired member of the New York State Police, was taken to the hospital about 2:10 a. m. by Doctors' ambulance attendants, who administered oxygen en route. Justice Reilly was a member of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation at the time of his retirement and currently was employed by Miron Building Products of Kingston.

Bridge Plans

introduce legislation to designate Highway 587 as George F. Chandler Drive, was unanimously approved. The Common Council recently took similar action suggestion of Assemblyman Wilson, who also sent a request to the supervisors.

The resolution by Rapp termed Col. Chandler "one of the truly outstanding citizens" of Ulster County, and noted his long list of accomplishments and services to his city, county, state and nation, which includes 32 years of active service of active medical practice in Ulster County.

The resolution further noted Colonel Chandler's "service as Surgeon-in-Chief of the Kingston Hospital, service in the United States Army as a Colonel during World War I, service as a member of the New York State Crime Commission, participation in numerous civic activities in the area including charter membership in the Kingston Rotary Club and, what is perhaps his greatest contribution, the founding of the New York State Police and service as that organization's first superintendent from 1917 to 1924."

Three Appointed
Chairman Williams appointed three supervisors to succeed him in office in the event of disaster. The action was taken under Local Law 1 (1963) which calls for department heads to name successors to insure continuity of government.

The chairman named—in the following order—Supervisor Robert P. Phinney, (11th Ward, city). Supervisor Charles Relyea, Town of Hurley, and Supervisor James A. Rapp (1st Ward, city).

The Board authorized the issuance and sale of $35,000 capital notes for the acquisition of rights-of-way needed for the Lucas Avenue Turnpike project in the towns of Hurley, Rosendale, Marlinton and Rochester.

The $35,000 represents part of the County Road 58 $100,000 capital note authorized by resolution on Aug. 8, 1963 for the land acquisition.

Supervisor John C. Quimby, Town of Marlborough, asked for a report on the Community College progress, and said no reply has been made this year. He concluded there has been no activity by the committee.

In rebuttal, Supervisor Rapp, member of the committee, stated there had been a report of the drawing up of the master plan for the college and the necessary preliminary engineering work. He also said the Board had authorized $20,000 for that work.

Must Develop Master Plan

Supervisor Alexander J. Banno, Town of Ulster, also a committee member, said the committee has worked as fast as possible and noted that until the master plan is developed and approved by the State Department of Education, no further work can be done at the college site.

Chairman Williams reapportioned two members to the County Mental Health Board for terms of two years each. They are the Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, who resides at 2 President's Place, and Dr. Elbert C. MacFadden Jr., of 98 Fair Street.

A resolution calling for a $20,000 capital note to provide for repairs involving plumbing, heating and electrical work at the county-owned building at 74 John Street, was withdrawn prior to last night's meeting. It was said the resolution will be revamped and submitted at the next meeting of the Board.

Word on Lights

A communication from J. Burch McMorran, State superintendent of Public Works, regarding the county's request for the installation of lights at the traffic circle at the Thruway Exit 19 Interchange, informed the board that everything possible is being done to expedite this project.

McMorran stated that District Engineer M. Nicholas Sinacori has submitted preliminary project data for approval. He informed the board that the policy of the State DPW in regard to lighting of highways has, of necessity, been that of obtaining agreement from the local government that they will furnish the power and the maintenance.

The state designs and installs the lighting. Installation is financed by construction funds, McMorran said. He noted that the power and the maintenance would be "a continuing drain on our already strained maintenance budget."

In reply to a request by the board, recommending that the State Conservation Department take necessary measures to insure a complete program of gypsy moth control for Ulster County in the spring of 1965, William D. Mulholland, assistant commissioner for Lands and Forests, in a communication read and filed last night, said:

"The Conservation Department, within limits of available manpower, will survey the forested area of Ulster County before the Spring of 1965 to locate areas where the population of gypsy moth egg masses are sufficient to indicate the need for treatment in 1965 to prevent

Peace Justice George Dietz, Town of Poughkeepsie, issued a warrant for the arrest of a Poughkeepsie school teacher on two new criminal charges when the teacher failed to appear Thursday to answer a charge of impersonating an officer.

Police said that Thomas North, 46, of 36 Raymond Avenue, faces new charges of issuing a fraudulent $100 check as bail money on the original charge, and for jumping bail.

North was arrested Aug. 2 on a charge of impersonating a police officer when he allegedly stopped Joan Barringer, of Salt Point Road, on Dutchess Turnpike, and demanded to see her driver's license. She told police that when she asked him for identification he tore off half of her license, returned the other half to her and left. Police arrested North a short time later on Main Street, where he was identified by Miss Barringer as the man who stopped her.

North denied the charge at his arraignment before Dietz. He was confined to jail in lieu of $500 bail. He later wrote a check in the amount of $100 when bail was reduced to that amount, but police said that check proved fraudulent. When North failed to appear before Dietz for the adjourned hearing date Thursday, the judge issued warrants charging North with the bad check and bail-jumping charges.

Mayor Not Ruling Out Stairway at School Locale

Mayor John J. Schwenk's statement Thursday dealing with proposed construction of a stairway, instead of installing new sidewalks and curbs in the area of the new John F. Kennedy School in the Fifth Ward, was not meant to rule out the possibility of again considering the stairway proposal.

Former Fifth Ward Alderman Frank A. Adams yesterday proposed building a stairway from a point along Yeomans Street up a slope so that the upper end terminate in Hasbrouck Park.

Mayor Schwenk, in his statement, said the idea of a stairway had been considered months ago, but was not taken then considered as desirable as sidewalks on the north side of Delaware Avenue.

However, the mayor said, "he would be glad to have Mr. Adams come to my office and explain his proposal further, as his idea may be slightly different," and it would be impossible to form the first, brief description.

widescale defoliation. "Before such areas of anticipated high caterpillar population can be treated, it shall be necessary that they present no known hazard from the spray material and that the individual owners of the forested areas concerned provide the Conservation Department with authorization to spray these lands."

The assistant commissioner said the department, on or about April 15, 1965, be pleased to report to the board of supervisors on the status of the gypsy moth survey in Ulster, if invited to by the county board.

Robert Regan, of 56 Hoffman Street, notified police Thursday afternoon that five gallons of gas and four quarts of oil had been stolen from his outboard motorboat moored at the Island Dock Marina. He also reported a metal guard strip damaged.

George Koerner, of 44 North Main Street, Catskill, reported last night that his car parked near the Kingston Model Railroad Club in the vicinity of the West Shore freight house, had been entered. He reported a magnifying glass, jackknife and $2 in change missing.

Capitol News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked 77 college and university presidents to beat the bushes for prospective government employees. Luning with them at the White House Thursday, the President told the educators they might be proud if they could contribute an Abraham Lincoln, an Oliver Wendell Holmes, an Arthur Vandenberg or a Sam Rayburn — or two.

The university and college presidents were asked to write the President or to telephone one of his assistants about any "really excellent, outstanding students who you think might be drawn into tours of public service."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Thursday to spend $965 million next year for housing, mostly to clear slums. The vote was 308 to 65.

President Johnson had asked $1.4 billion for two years of urban renewal and $1.8 billion for housing over-all. What the House did was give him about half of what he wanted.

The Senate has passed a similar, although more extensive, bill. The two versions must be meshed before the legislation is sent to the White House.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it is ready for a first — using a satellite already in orbit to help direct another satellite into the proper orbit.

The feat will be attempted next Tuesday when Syncom II, a communications satellite in near stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the mid-Pacific, will assist Syncom C, a sister satellite, after its launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The orbit chosen for Syncom C is the same as Syncom II's — to hover above the international dateline at the equator.

Where Syncom II will come in is to relay radio communications from the Pacific, thus bypassing weather conditions and ionospheric disturbances frequently between surface points. These communications will be used to help get Syncom C in proper orbit.

Work of Pranksters

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Police announced a solution to reports of an unidentified flying object with flashing lights over Loveland Thursday night.

Pranksters had launched a railroad flare with a half-dozen gas-filled balloons, officers said.

The Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program estimates that only about 3 per cent of alcoholics in the United States are "skid row" types.

Dear Abby . . .

He's Certainly Thoughtless!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son never was very good about writing, so when he went into the service we didn't expect too much in the way of mail from him. After we didn't get one line from him in over six months we got in touch with the American Red Cross, and they sent word to us that our son had been discharged three months ago. Isn't the Army supposed to send a boy home after he's been discharged? I am sure they are. So why didn't they send ours home? We are worried.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When a serviceman is discharged his transportation home is paid, but nobody "takes" him there. The Army is not responsible for a man once he is discharged. Don't worry. A son who doesn't write home once in six months is probably in good health somewhere, enjoying himself. He'll turn up.

DEAR ABBY: Should the man who CATCHES the fish have to clean them before bringing them home? Or should his wife clean them?

LOVES TO FISH

DEAR LOVES: If the man fishes for sport, he should be a good sport and clean them himself. But no fisherman will clean fish if he's caught a sucker.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her fiancé made an appointment to have a talk with our clergyman about plans for their forthcoming marriage. When they came back, they were both disgusted. The first thing the clergyman asked my daughter was, "Are you pregnant?" She most certainly was not, but even if she had been, I don't think it would have been any of his business. I thought clergymen were supposed to discuss the teachings of the Bible, and the proper execution of the sacraments. If this is something new, maybe we should have doctors of medicine in the pulpit. I would like your comments.

ALSO DISGUSTED

DEAR ALSO: Clergymen are people even as you and I. There are some bad apples in the liturgical barrel just as there are in other barrels, so don't judge all clergymen by yours. He should be reported to his immediate superior.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY IN HUNTSVILLE: You place too much emphasis on money. "Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has, the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum, it takes one." (Ben Franklin)

New Witnesses Are Heard in Shockey's Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A New York pathologist and a Nevada undersheriff were the latest witnesses to testify in the trial of Herbert Shockey, accused of slaying a Sheriff, N.Y., couple.

Dr. Russell Lindauer took the stand Thursday to identify a bullet that he said was removed from the body of John Bertella. The prosecution alleges the bullet came from a rifle owned by Shockey.

Bertella and his wife were slain last February on the desert near Apache Junction, Ariz. Shockey, 30, an ex-convict, faces a possible death sentence if found guilty.

Undersheriff William S. Schuh testified that he tried to stop a pickup-camper truck driven by Shockey at a Nevada roadblock last March 20.

The truck sped off the highway and stopped, Schuh said. When he reached the truck, he testified, he found only a 17-year-old girl, Theresa Robichaud of Fresno, Calif., in the vehicle. He said he also found fingerprints indicating that the driver had fled.

Maricopa County Sheriff L. C. (Cal) Boies has said Shockey admitted the killings but did not implicate the girl.

The prosecution Thursday won an argument over its move to have pictures of the victims' bodies entered as evidence.

Police said today the identity of the intruders still was not known.

Fronzizi, deposed in March 1962, blamed the government of President Arturo Illia. The government declined comment.

NEW YORK (AP)—A flying water skier was injured in a 40-foot fall into a lake during a show at the world's fair Thursday.

Hal Elgin, 29, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was lifted gracefully from the water by a kite attached to his back. A gust of wind tore the kite loose and Elgin fell awkwardly, head over heels.

He was rescued from the water by other members of an 11-man team which water skied 2,100 miles from St. Petersburg to put on the show.

Capitol News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked 77 college and university presidents to beat the bushes for prospective government employees.

Lunching with them at the White House Thursday, the President told the educators they might be proud if they could contribute an Abraham Lincoln, an Oliver Wendell Holmes, an Arthur Vandenberg or a Sam Rayburn — or two.

The university and college presidents were asked to write the President or to telephone one of his assistants about any "really excellent, outstanding students who you think might be drawn into tours of public service."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Thursday to spend $965 million next year for housing, mostly to clear slums. The vote was 308 to 65.

President Johnson had asked $1.4 billion for two years of urban renewal and $1.8 billion for housing over-all. What the House did was give him about half of what he wanted.

The Senate has passed a similar, although more extensive, bill. The two versions must be meshed before the legislation is sent to the White House.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it is ready for a first — using a satellite already in orbit to help direct another satellite into the proper orbit.

The feat will be attempted next Tuesday when Syncom II, a communications satellite in near-stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the mid-Pacific, will assist Syncom C, a sister satellite, after its launching from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The orbit chosen for Syncom C is the same as Syncom II's — to hover above the international dateline at the equator.

Where Syncom II will come in is to relay radio communications from the Pacific, thus bypassing weather conditions and ionospheric disturbances frequent between surface points. These communications will be used to help get Syncom C in proper orbit.

Work of Pranksters

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Police announced a solution to reports of an unidentified flying object with flashing lights over Loveland Thursday night.

Pranksters had launched a railroad flare with a half-dozen gas-filled balloons, officers said.

The Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program estimates that only about 3 per cent of alcoholics in the United States are "skid row" types.

Dear Abby . . .

He's Certainly Thoughtless!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son never was very good about writing, so when he went into the service we didn't expect too much in the way of mail from him. After we didn't get one line from him in over six months we got in touch with the American Red Cross, and they sent word to us that our son had been discharged three months ago. Isn't the Army supposed to send a boy home after he's been discharged? I am sure they are. So why didn't they send ours home? We are worried.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When a serviceman is discharged his transportation home is paid, but nobody "takes" him there. The Army is not responsible for a man once he is discharged. Don't worry. A son who doesn't write home once in six months is probably in good health somewhere, enjoying himself. He'll turn up.

DEAR ABBY: Should the man who CATCHES the fish have to clean them before bringing them home? Or should his wife clean them?

LOVES TO FISH

DEAR LOVES: If the man fishes for sport, he should be a good sport and clean them himself. But no fisherman will clean fish if he's caught a sucker.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her fiancé made an appointment to have a talk with our clergyman about plans for their forthcoming marriage. When they came back, they were both disgusted. The first thing the clergyman asked my daughter was, "Are you pregnant?" She most certainly was not, but even if she had been, I don't think it would have been any of his business. I thought clergymen were supposed to discuss the teachings of the Bible, and the proper execution of the sacraments. If this is something new, maybe we should have doctors of medicine in the pulpit. I would like your comments.

ALSO DISGUSTED

DEAR ALSO: Clergymen are people even as you and I. There are some bad apples in the liturgical barrel just as there are in other barrels, so don't judge all clergymen by yours. He should be reported to his immediate superior.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALLY IN HUNTSVILLE: You place too much emphasis on money. "Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has, the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum, it takes one."

New Witnesses Are Heard in Shockey's Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A New York pathologist and a Nevada undersheriff were the latest witnesses to testify in the trial of Herbert Shockey, accused of slaying a Sheriff, N.Y., couple.

Dr. Russell Lindauer took the stand Thursday to identify a bullet that he said was removed from the body of John Bertella. The prosecution alleges the bullet came from a rifle owned by Shockey.

Bertella and his wife were slain last February on the desert near Apache Junction, Ariz. Shockey, 20, an ex-convict, faces a possible death sentence if found guilty.

Undersheriff William S. Schuh testified that he tried to stop a pickup-camper truck driven by Shockey at a Nevada roadblock last March 20.

The truck sped off the highway and stopped, Schuh said. When he reached the truck, he testified, he found only a 17-year-old girl, Theresa Robichaud of Fresno, Calif., in the vehicle. He said he also found footprints indicating that the driver had fled.

Maricopa County Sheriff L. C. (Cal) Boies has said Shockey admitted the killings but did not implicate the girl.

The prosecution Thursday won an argument over its move to have pictures of the victims' bodies entered as evidence.

Mother, 26, of Five Became Truck Driver by Necessity

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Sidewalk superintendents like to know where contractor Ray Schoenberger is laying asphalt. If they are lucky, one of his workers may fail to show up and "Honey" will get into action.

"Honey" is 130 pounds of blonde femininity. Jauntily outfitted in white blouse, tan capris and moccasins, she wheels 10-ton dump trucks loaded with hot asphalt in and out of narrow spaces, plops the mix where it's needed, then takes over the complicated controls of a steamroller and smooths the surfacing with all the aplomb of a grizzled veteran.

"Honey" also happens to be Ray's 26-year-old wife, Margaret, mother of five youngsters aged 3 to 10.

Mrs. Schoenberger started driving her husband's equipment out of grim necessity. She continues "because I love it."

"I learned to drive a car when I was 11 years old," she said. "When I was 14 I was driving everywhere by myself. Ray and I got married when I was 16. I had always wanted to drive trucks and he taught me how."

In those days Ray owned two dump trucks. For the first few years Margaret was busy with babies. There was Dennis, now 10; then Sheryl, 9, and Vicki, 8. Margaret was pregnant with Raymond, now 5, when tragedy struck.

"The repair bills were terrible. Then Ray was hurt and in the hospital. But we couldn't even afford to keep him there. Something had to be done."

"As soon as the baby was born, I told Ray he'd have to teach me the business. Six weeks later I was driving the trucks."

"Honey" modestly protests that what she does is "just ordinary work." But she agrees that people do stop and stare when they see her handling the big machines.

"The most startling seem to be the other truck drivers," she laughed.

Boy Cyclist Hurt In Traffic; Fire Alarm Damaged

A boy was injured in a car-bicycle mishap, and a fire alarm box was damaged when a car rolled down a grade Thursday.

Police said Duane Mertine, 7, of 672 Broadway, suffered a slight injury of the right elbow when the bicycle he rode, moved from the sidewalk into the path of a car driven by Thomas G. Carlino, 39, of 88 Grand Street, on Prospect near St. James Street, early yesterday afternoon. The boy was not hospitalized.

A report at 2:45 p. m. said the car of William Metzger, 30, of 143 Harwick Street, parked at the curb near 375 Broadway, rolled after the brake apparently "let go," and struck the fire alarm box at Foxhall Avenue.

A report at 1:25 p. m. said a child had apparently become ill and had fallen at German and Abel streets. He was identified as Emil Shultis, 3, of 147 Abel Street, and was taken by a Doctors' ambulance to Kingston Hospital, where the report said, he was treated for tonsillitis and discharged.

Activation of or how to construct it. He said officials of this department were professionally qualified and "I am not pretending to be an engineer."

However, Wilson said, "I do feel it falls within my province to see to it that the greatest number of constituents are best served and that the ultimate plan is economically feasible."

Holds Up Bid

He continued, "The planning and sharing of cost is a function of the two bodies previously mentioned. Legislation is necessary. I have been ready to present such since the 1963 Session. As a matter of fact, I had a bill prepared and ready to introduce during the 1963 Session, but withheld same at the request of the Bridge Authority until the question of financing had been resolved."

"In February of this year I again offered my assistance to prepare legislation to expedite this matter," but was informed that conferences were being held between the Public Works Department and the Bridge Authority concerning the sharing of construction costs.

"I was also informed that the Authority was checking the traffic on the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge to determine how much traffic would be siphoned away from the Mid-Hudson Bridge. Hence, all these factors were, and as I understand it, are being studied and acted upon before final action is taken on the preparation of proper legislation."

Ready to Act

"My office stands ready to act as soon as possible as these matters have been resolved and my office is urging that determinations be made so that legislation may be prepared and pre-filed for the 1965 Session of the State Legislature."

The next step subsequent to last night's hearing, Sinaori told The Freeman today, calls for a review of the transcript of the hearing. He said that planning for a complete design of the proposed plan would take "at least another year," and letting of bids for the work would depend on the determination of planning. That would place actual construction "at least two years" away, he said.

Beacon Man Held

Two Beacon men arrested on a third-degree burglary charge in connection with a break-in early Sunday in a restaurant in that Dutchess County city, were arraigned this morning in Beacon City Court. Wayne Morgan, 19, of 54 Ferry Street, was ordered held for action of the Dutchess County Grand Jury when he waived a preliminary examination. William Matthews, Jr., 44, of 78 Ferry Street, demanded a preliminary examination which was set down for next Wednesday. Both men were committed to the County Jail. Beacon city police charged that Morgan and Matthews broke a rear window in McKinney's Restaurant and took about $230. The case was investigated by Detective Raymond Stewart and Officers Roberts Epps and Vernon Way.

Special Study

nue were informed that the City Charter stated that it was mandatory for the taxpayer to bear 100 per cent of the cost. At recent meetings the people of the Delaware Avenue section have been informed that there is no obstacle to bar a 25 per cent to 75 per cent ratio if the lawmakers and Board of Public Works agree.

Which Is Correct:

The persons involved on both installations are entitled to know which of these statements is correct. Another statement released by the Kingston Daily Freeman on June 31, 1961 stated the Board of Education, during their meeting of the previous evening, moved to try to get 51 per cent of the property owners on Mary's Avenue, between West Chester and Andrew Streets to agree to sidewalks. If 51 per cent were willing, the Board would pay 75 per cent of the cost with 25 per cent being taken care of by the city.

The Board of Education proved by this action that they felt a moral obligation to help in a situation created by the construction of a new school in the area. This formula was held as illegal and could not be used. Just a little later with the completion of the J. Watson Bailey School this same board installed a sidewalk on Quarry Street in front of the school which extends past two houses and down part of the way on State property. Again, if one formula is right, the other must be wrong.

Later, as reported in the January 11, 1963 issue of The Freeman, a resolution was adopted by the Board of Public Works to authorize the City Engineer to prepare specifications for construction of sidewalks on Mary's Avenue between West Chester Street and Pine Grove Avenue on both sides of the street. However, when the letters to the residents regarding the deadline on construction of sidewalks were mailed, they were addressed only to the residents on the north side of Mary's Avenue. Is there a double standard? Who determines the privileged side?

The cost of construction of sidewalks to the taxpayer is relatively small compared to the greater burden of maintenance, accident liability and snow removal over the years.

Now Is the Time

Now appears to be time for the city to consider some new regulation of the installation of sidewalks and curbing. Some sidewalks here are as old or older than this incorporated city, and there are streets, lanes, etc. which have had no sidewalks through the years.

Let us assume that if a property owner wants sidewalks and curbs, after not having had them for years, that he should bear full cost. But is it fair, in areas where a public project, such as a new school, suddenly imposes a new duty and expense upon him, that he should bear full expense?

It is not so in the building of a new state road, or similar public project. Property owners for such projects are given consideration for whatever alteration of their property is involved, and are dealt with through settlement or condemnation.

Most persons, including property owners who have not had sidewalks for years, agree that sidewalk safety is important near a school, but when they have nothing to do with selection of site, and one is chosen in their neighborhood, it would seem fair that the builder, whether it be a school district, a state, county or city department involved, should be required to pay at least half the cost. It would be more fair, considering the fact that such projects are of general public benefit, if a builder or developer were required to pay full cost, especially in instances, where there have been no such improvements as sidewalks and curbs in 50 or 100 years, and possibly as far back as Colonial times.

How then do we solve our present dilemma? I would like to suggest the immediate appointment of an impartial committee of men of good will to recommend a fair and just solution to the curbing and sidewalk problems. Their recommendations should have great weight in helping all elected officials to raise their sights above party lines and come up with an immediate and just solution.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally continued early this afternoon but the pace of trading slackened.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

The trend was slightly higher among steels, motors, retails, rails and airlines.

A more ragged pattern was displayed by aerospace stocks, building materials, drugs, oils, chemicals and nonferrous metals.

Some sharp losses appeared. IBM was down more than 5, Control Data more than 2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 316.8 with industrials up .6, rails up .4 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.03 at 839.55.

An initial flurry in CBS followed overnight news that CBS had bought an 80 per cent interest in the New York Yankees baseball organization. The stock opened on 7,500 shares, up 7/8 at 42 1/2, pushed its gain to more than a point, then subsided, and edged to a slight net loss.

Radio Corp., which controls NBC, and ABC - Paramount, which has the other nationwide television network, showed little change.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

Lady Bird Goes West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson heads for Montana and Indian country tomorrow on the first leg of her 4,200-mile, four-day Western journey.

For her look at the historic West, the President's wife traveled 20th-century style — in a big chartered plane.

The party of 58, including reporters and photographers, fly to Billings, Mont., with a half-hour refueling stop at Minneapolis en route.

Mrs. Johnson's trip will give her a fast look at some of the West's old mining towns, scenic tourist attractions and landmarks. She'll go into Utah and Wyoming as well as Montana.

The first day was to be devoted to looking over the 15 million-acre Crow Indian Reservation, west of Billings, where ceremonies, tribal dances and songs were prepared in her honor by Crow and neighboring Northern Cheyenne Indians.

Montana is observing its centennial this year.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, accompanying Mrs. Johnson, said as far as anyone in his department could recall, this was the first time any First Lady had gone out to take a look at an Indian Reservation and this kind of interest was "an exciting thing for the Indian people."

They even sent to the White House to get Mrs. Johnson's shoe size (7 1/2 narrow) so they could make her moccasins to be presented as a gift along with Indian jewelry.

The daylong excursion into the Indian country was to end in time for Mrs. Johnson's plane to get to Jackson, Wyo., by nightfall.

She will be staying overnight throughout the four-day trip at Jackson Lake Lodge in Grand Teton National Park.

Seneca Falls — The health commissioner has directed action against the village to make it stop polluting the Seneca River.

Waverly — The department has ordered the village to build a sewage-treatment plant by April 1, 1966.

RFK Appears Shoo-in for Senate Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy apparently has a sure majority of the delegates to the Democratic state convention to win the nomination for U.S. senator.

Counties regarded in his corner, or leaning toward him, have more than 700 delegates to the convention here Sept. 1. This tally, however, does not mean that support in all these counties would be solid.

There will be 1,144 delegate votes and 573 will be needed for nomination.

Kennedy has not announced for the nomination, and has said he would not consider running without "express approval" by New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Wagner, the state's top-ranking Democrat, speaks highly of Kennedy but has not endorsed him.

Backers of Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam are continuing to fight for the nomination. Stratton, who says he is not a declared candidate, claims party support in 35 of the state's 62 counties. Most of the 35 are small.

The nomination is for the seat held by Republican Kenneth B. Keating, who says he hasn't made up his mind whether he will seek a second term. However, he has the backing of the Republican state organization and is generally regarded as a candidate.

The leaders of these counties are regarded in Kennedy's corner: Kings (Brooklyn) 184 convention votes; the Bronx 108; Erie, with Buffalo the county seat, 88; Nassau 70; Monroe 44; Suffolk, 32; Ontario, one of the eight counties in Stratton's congressional district, 5. Total—531.

New York County (Manhattan), Wagner's home county, which has 114 delegates is reported ready to go for Kennedy once he announces his candidacy.

Other counties reported for or leaning to, Kennedy include Westchester 47; Livingston 4; Sullivan, 3; Wayne 4; Washington 4; Orange 11; Steuben 5; and Putnam 4.

An intra-party row over Stratton has broken out in Oneida County, of which Utica is the county seat.

Oneida Democratic chairman G. Carl Morse has said the county's 16-member convention delegation was no longer committed to Stratton and he would be pleased to see Kennedy nominated.

Thursday, Richard H. Balch of Utica, a former Democratic state chairman who is backing Stratton, challenged Morse's stand. Balch said that the Democratic county committee unanimously endorsed Stratton on April 23, and made no change in that endorsement at a meeting on June 22 when Morse was elected chairman.

Adlai Scores Extremists

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has attacked "extremes in international politics" in reference to the Chinese Communists and apparently to Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The ambassador to the United Nations did not mention the Republican presidential nominee by name but left little doubt as to his target in addressing the American Bar Association Thursday night.

He said each of the extremes demanded more aggressive tactics to win a world victory over the other.

Stevenson said he originally had intended to speak on international law but that he had decided to discuss politics "now that the quadrennial political fire is upon us."

Hitting at extremes both in China and at home, he said, "The two ends of the political spectrum often vibrate in harmony."

"Both extremes in international politics are lethal," he said, "and for the same reason—they ignore the fragility of man's survival; they play deadly games on the brink of disaster."

"I have heard," he continued, "that the object of the exercise—from one side at least—is to offer the voter a 'clear choice' of leadership. Although the trumpet gave forth a less certain sound from Hershey yesterday, if I correctly interpret the words that came to us from San Francisco, there will, indeed, be a conspicuous choice available."

Stevenson, twice the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for president, was referring to the Republican "unity" meeting at Hershey, Pa. Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate, was nominated at the San Francisco convention.

Clerk for Mintz

It was reported in Albany that Gold has been employed as a general clerk assigned to Republican State Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz of South Fallsburgh, chairman of the assembly's excise committee, which handles liquor legislation.

Gold pleaded innocent to the perjury charges and was released without bail Thursday. If convicted, he would face a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and $15,000 in fines.

The indictment accused him of lying about three purported meetings just before and after the track was licensed in 1959. The meetings were in New York, Miami Beach, Fla., and Philadelphia, the indictment said.

On the day after the license was granted, the indictment said, Gold left Philadelphia for Miami with $100,000 in cash in an attache case.

Four Get $80,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Four men kidnapped an American Airlines cashier near his home today, forced him to open the airline's safe at Kennedy Airport and fled with $80,000 in small bills, police reported.

A half-dozen American employees, waiting for the cashier to cash their paychecks, witnessed the holdup, but none suspected anything until the robbers broke into a run in fleeing the airline office.

Some employees gave chase but the thieves got away in a rented white car. Police said the robbers left behind a small truck which they had used to transport cashier John Young to the Queens Airport.

Silver Too Speculative For Education Fund

Q) "We have no stocks but are interested in investing $1,500. What do you think about American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Sunshine Mining? We are interested in building a nest egg for our children's education."

A) Your objective is a very laudable one and I commend you for it. I think very well of two of the stocks you mention. Jersey Standard is the world's leading oil company and American Telephone is, of course, a very strong stock. I would avoid Sunshine Mining, in your circumstances and with your goal. This is the biggest silver producer in the country and the stock has more than doubled in price this year on the increased demand and price for the metal. To buy at present levels might work out well, but you would be speculating on further gains in silver prices. If you stick to your first two choices alone, I believe you will be sufficiently diversified.

Q) "My husband has been transferred to a new job in another state. We are selling our home and have $6,000 which we would like to invest in stocks. Our next move will be permanent and we will then need the $6,000 to buy a new home. My husband is employed by Chrysler and is taking advantage of their thrift-stock plan offered to the staff. Any suggestions will be appreciated."

A) If you will allow me, I'm going to suggest that you put your money in a savings institution, rather than in stocks. I believe that it is always unwise to invest with a time limit. The one thing certain about stocks is that they fluctuate, sometimes very widely. If a year or two from now, your husband got his final transfer, you might find stocks depressed in price and have to sell at a loss or postpone your home building. In a savings institution, your capital will remain intact for whenever you need it.

Mother, 26, of Five Became Truck Driver by Necessity

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Sidewalk superintendents like to know where contractor Ray Schoenberger is laying asphalt. If they are lucky, one of his workers may fail to show up and "Honey" will get into action.

"Honey" is 130 pounds of blonde femininity. Jauntily outfitted in white blouse, tan capris and moccasins, she wheels 10-ton dump trucks loaded with hot asphalt in and out of narrow spaces, plops the mix where it's needed, then takes over the complicated controls of a steamroller and smooths the surfacing with all the aplomb of a grizzled veteran.

"Honey" also happens to be Ray's 26-year-old wife, Margaret, mother of five youngsters aged 3 to 10.

Mrs. Schoenberger started driving her husband's equipment out of grim necessity. She continues "because I love it."

"I learned to drive a car when I was 11 years old," she said. "When I was 14 I was driving everywhere by myself. Ray and I got married when I was 16. I had always wanted to drive trucks and he taught me how." In those days Ray owned two dump trucks. For the first few years Margaret was busy with babies. There was Dennis, now 10; then Sheryl, 9, and Vicki, 8. Margaret was pregnant with Raymond, now 5, when tragedy struck.

"Ray was working on a motor in one of his trucks when some gasoline exploded. He was burned from head to waist. We were already having financial troubles. We couldn't get good drivers and those we got didn't take care of the equipment.

"The repair bills were terrible. Then Ray was hurt and in the hospital. But we couldn't even afford to keep him there. Something had to be done.

"As soon as the baby was born, I told Ray he'd have to teach me the business. Six weeks later I was driving the trucks."

"Honey" modestly protests that what she does is "just ordinary work." But she agrees that people do stop and stare when they see her handling the big machines.

"The most startling seem to be the other truck drivers," she laughed.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally continued early this afternoon but the pace of trading slackened.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

The trend was slightly higher among steels, motors, retails, rails and airlines.

A more ragged pattern was displayed by aerospace stocks, building materials, drugs, oils, chemicals and nonferrous metals.

Some sharp losses appeared. IBM was down more than 5, Control Data more than 2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 4 at 316.8 with industrials up 4, rails up 4 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.03 at 839.55.

An initial flurry in CBS followed overnight news that CBS had bought an 80 per cent interest in the New York Yankee baseball organization. The stock opened on 7,500 shares, up 7 1/2 at 42 1/2, pushed its gain to more than a point, then subsided, and edged to a slight net loss.

Radio Corp., which controls NBC and ABC, Paramount, which has the other nationwide television network, showed little change.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

It was reported in Albany that Gold has been employed as a general clerk assigned to Republican State Assemblyman Hyman E. Mintz of South Fallsburgh, chairman of the assembly's excise committee, which handles liquor legislation.

Gold pleaded innocent to the perjury charges and was released without bail Thursday. If convicted, he would face a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and $15,000 in fines.

The indictment accused him of lying about three purported meetings just before and after the state assisted 10-year Town Highway Improvement Program. Silver Too Speculative For Education Fund

Q) "We have no stocks but are interested in investing $1,500. What do you think about American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Sunshine Mining? We are interested in building a nest egg for our children's education."

A) Your objective is a very laudable one and I commend you for it. I think very well of two of the stocks you mention.

Jersey Standard is the world's leading oil company and American Telephone is, of course, a very strong stock. I would avoid Sunshine Mining, in your circumstances and with your goal. This is the biggest silver producer in the country and the stock has more than doubled in price this year on the increased demand and price for the metal. To buy at present levels might work out well, but you would be speculating on further gains in silver prices. If you stick to your first two choices alone, I believe you will be sufficiently diversified.

Q) "My husband has been transferred to a new job in another state. We are selling our home and have $6,000 which we would like to invest in stocks. Our next move will be permanent and we will then need the $6,000 to buy a new home. My husband is employed by Chrysler and is taking advantage of their thrift-stock plan offered to the staff. Any suggestions will be appreciated."

A) If you will allow me, I'm going to suggest that you put your money in a savings institution, rather than in stocks.

I believe that it is always unwise to invest with a time limit. The one thing certain about stocks is that they fluctuate, sometimes very widely.

If a year or two from now, your husband got his final transfer, you might find stocks depressed in price and have to sell at a loss or postpone your home building. In a savings institution, your capital will remain intact for whenever you need it.

Esopus Has Water

though Joseph H. Clark, a resident of River Road south of the new water plant, voiced strenuous objections to not being included in the proposed extension.

The board passed a bonding resolution in the amount of $30,000 to effect certain improvements in the existing distribution system of Port Ewen Water District and to finance several unforeseen additional costs resulting from the construction of the new treatment plant.

To Eliminate Dead Ends

System improvements largely cover the elimination of a number of "dead ends" in the main system. The additional plant costs result from added costs stemming from the backfilling required in the water main trench on River Road, and to follow a recommendation of the engineers to place a rip-rap barrier around the shore line perimeter of the plant. A total of $35,000 of the amount to be raised had been previously authorized at the time of the original bond issue for the water plant, but the bonds were not issued at that time.

A deed was executed by the board to acquire a small portion of land from Ralph Montella of Ulster Park to permit the widening of a turn on Esopus Avenue. Superintendent of Highways Paul Mercier reported on a traffic count he had made by automatic traffic counter on Esopus Avenue.

The count was made in connection with the Town's attempts to obtain a warning device at the New York Central Railroad crossing at Esopus Avenue. The count conducted over a three-day period showed a maximum number of 121 vehicles in one 24-hour period. During the coming school year, there will also be five school bus crossings per day it was disclosed.

A number of residents at the meeting complained to the board about the use of carbide guns by farmers to scare off birds and wild life from eating crops. The board promised to look into the matter and to see if it were possible to limit the hours of operation of the guns.

The board agreed to contact the State Traffic Commission and request the establishment of a speed limit for Clay road and Mountain View Avenue in Port Ewen. A number of motorists are using the roads to by-pass the village. The board also agreed to seek a warning device for the intersection of Route 9W and River Road.

At the request of a number of residents of Connelly, "stop" signs were authorized for installation at the intersection of Center and Third Streets in the hamlet. A letter received from the State Traffic Commission indicated that the state planned to change the traffic light at the intersection of Broadway and Salem Street, Port Ewen, so that there will be two lights facing each intersection.

It was disclosed that two road building projects will be undertaken by the Town Highway Department in 1965 as part of the state assisted 10-year Town Highway Improvement Program. The roads to be rebuilt are 68 miles of the Floyd Ackert Road between the Old Post Road and the Swartekill Road, and one mile of the Soper Road between the Old Post Road and the Hardenburgh Road. Both roads are in the southern part of the Township.

A letter was received from Brinnier & Larios, consulting engineers, Kingston, in response to a request by the Town Board, stating that it would not be feasible to install a swimming pool at Ross Park, Port Ewen, because of poor drainage conditions in the area of the park.

At the July meeting of the board, the Port Ewen Business Men's Association had proposed to spearhead a drive for a swimming pool, if such a proposal met with the board's approval. The board proposed to meet with the Business Men, to gether with engineers and health officials, next week to discuss the project.

Harry B. Van Ormer, assistant water superintendent of the Port Ewen Water District, reported that average daily consumption of water in the district during July had been 210,000 gallons, an increase of 25,000 gallons a day over the preceding month.

It was also announced that an open house at the water plant would be held in early September. At the open house, the new Hudson River installation will be formally opened and all residents given an opportunity to inspect the new facility. Van Ormer reported that the new plant went into operation smoothly with a minimum number of "bugs" normally expected in such an operation.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 14—Consumer markets are being reshaped so fast, so dramatically, and on such a wide geographic scale that I sometimes wonder how many of the readers recognize the extent of the "revolution." The people I most want to talk to about this are, of course, those of you involved in manufacturing, retailing, the services, advertising, or promotion in general.

Personal Incomes Climbing Fast

One of the key reasons why consumer habits are experiencing such a dynamic change is the unprecedented growth in personal incomes. During 1963, for instance, about a million family units were newly raised into the income bracket of $10,000 a year or better, carrying the total for this secure economic group of buyers to an all-time high of 12.3 million. It should be noted, in fact, that at least a third of these had incomes of over $15,000. Also important is the knowledge that 1963 saw a reduction of 700,000 in marketing families earning less than $4,000 a year.

The thing I want to stress about this trend is that it does not mean that families simply buy more of what they have always bought, but that they are learning to look for better quality goods. The tendency toward luxuries and toward higher living standards is also strongly on the increase. More money is being laid out for foreign travel, better automobiles, boats, and—probably most important of all—higher education. As a matter of fact, the education "explosion" is having a tremendous effect on buying habits, and will continue to do so over the years ahead.

Education's Effect on Sales

Searching out the latest statistics, I have found that, while the population of our nation contained only 7.5 million college-educated men and women 20 years ago, it now has 16 million. And this upsurge is gaining speed at a great rate. In fact, government observers anticipate that the college-educated will total 20 million by 1970, and will reach as high as 28 million during the following decade. Already, estimates have it that 20 per cent of our households are headed by at least one parent with a higher education.

Add these facts to the increasing personal incomes and you have a buying public with far more sophisticated tastes than ever before, especially when you consider that the college-educated people are almost always in the best salary brackets. Hence this growing part of the consuming public must be an important consideration in your planning for future goods, promotion programs, packaging, and sales attitudes generally.

Circling Out from This Center
Whenever there is a revolutionary social trend, as in the current outburst of enthusiasm for higher education, its effects circle out and sweep along those not directly involved. While millions are going to college, other millions not college-bred are becoming sympathetically interested in cultural objectives. Self-learning is strongly on the upgrade, as is evidenced by a massive turnover in paperback books, bigger attendance at concerts and art centers, increased library use, more educational TV programs, higher record sales.

Free seminars on science, law, painting, sculpture, and even more highly specialized subjects are attracting larger numbers, both in person and by way of TV. This is true not only in the big cities, but throughout virtually all parts of the country. Summer theatres, rare and just about unknown not too many years ago, now flourish everywhere. I hope that my emphasis on the change of perspective in an ever-wider section of the purchasing public will be taken seriously by all connected with distribution. Those who pay no heed to the surge will get caught short in the years ahead.

Women Still Good Sales Target

My final word of advice: The enormous number of working wives has helped bring up family incomes substantially, and their pay-check independence makes them interested in purchases previously left more commonly to the menfolk. So it would be smart to direct more attention to the women than ever before when you are staging promotions for merchandise usually aimed at the nation's males.

There Is a Time for False-Carding

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is time when a false-card play is practically obligatory. That is when you want to make a defender think that his partner has signalled come-on rather than stop and lead something else.

With 18 high card points and a good five card suit, the South hand is too powerful for a no-trump opening even if you are one of those players who opens one no-trump with 18 points.

South might well have jumped to three no-trump as his rebid after North's heart raise, but he wanted to collect for his 100 honors.

West opened the king of clubs. East dropped the five spot and South made the obligatory false-card of the eight spot.

West thought for a long while. Where was the three of clubs? If East held it, then he had asked for a club continuation and was ready to ruff the third lead of the suit.

There Is a Time for False-Carding

By OSWALD JACOBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There is time when a false-card play is practically obligatory. That is when you want to make a defender think that his partner has signalled come-on rather than stop and lead something else.

With 18 high card points and a good five card suit, the South hand is too powerful for a no-trump opening even if you are one of those players who opens one no-trump with 18 points.

South might well have jumped to three no-trump as his rebid after North's heart raise, but he wanted to collect for his 100 honors.

West opened the king of clubs. East dropped the five spot and South made the obligatory false-card of the eight spot.

West thought for a long while. Where was the three of clubs? If East held it, then he had asked for a club continuation and was ready to ruff the third lead of the suit.

Mrs. Henry L. Reinwald and family were Mrs. Reinwald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kreeft of Middletown and Mrs. Reinwald's aunts, Mrs. Frank Bodine, Walden, Mrs. Daniel Wright, Goshen, Mrs. Gilbert McCord and Mrs. Andrew Burkinshaw, Pine Bush.

Sunday was the Rev. Mr. Reinwald's final service with the Plattekill Reformed Church. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. Jill Susanne daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindsley was baptized by the Rev. Mr. Reinwald. Also Nancy Jean Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rose of Mt. Marion Park received the God and Community Award.

The Plattekill Reformed Church was the first church in Ulster County to give this award. Linda Jean Newkirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Newkirk will receive her award Aug. 30th to be presented by the Rev. George Wood, guest minister that Sunday. There was a very large attendance. The congregation being well over two hundred people.

Mrs. Eric Farquharson was entertained by members of the staff of the Ulster County Community College Saturday at Watson Hollow Inn at a luncheon.

Eventually, West played out his ace of clubs. This established South's queen and allowed him to make this contract easily.

While the club continuation made things easy for South, he could have made the hand against any defense.

USE OF A DINNER BELL

Q: When is a dinner bell properly used? I was wondering if I might use one to announce dinner when I have guests?

A: In a boarding house where it is necessary to summon guests from various places in or about the house, the use of a dinner bell is quite all right, but to announce to guests in a private house that dinner is served by means of a bell, would not be proper. If you have a maid and the bell is a small one, you can put it at your place at table and ring it when you wish her to come into the dining room from the kitchen.

Bride's Parents Live Abroad

Q: Last year, while I was abroad studying I met and fell in love with a girl. We are to be married. Her parents will not be able to come here for the wedding. We intend to be married in my parish church. I would like to know in whose names the invitations should be sent.

A: As your parents are giving the wedding, the invitations may properly go out in their names. The wording would be: Mr. and Mrs. John Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Miss Helen Green to their son Henry Smith etc.

Addressing Card to Little Girl

Q: Is it correct to address a card to a child of 3 as Miss? I heard that Miss should not be used until she is in her teens and before this she is addressed simply as Jane Smith.

A: A girl, even one as young as 3, may quite properly be addressed as Miss.

The correct wording and addressing of wedding invitations and announcements are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped, envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of The Freeman.

Women Voters Plan Booth at Fair Aug. 19-20

Because of the importance of this presidential election year, the four Leagues of Women Voters in Ulster County are manning a booth featuring complete registration and voting information, at the Ulster County Fair, Aug. 19 and 20. Upon announcing this service, the presidents of the leagues, Mrs. David Gerberg, Kingston, Mrs. Alvin Moscovitz, Woodstock, Mrs. Robert Schuler, New Paltz, and Mrs. Charles Steele Jr., Saugerties Provisional League, urged the public to avail themselves of this opportunity. Members of the leagues will be on hand to give instruction in the use of a voting machine. Visitors to the booth need only ask for a demonstration.

The leagues, in keeping with their non-partisan policy, are aware of the problem of getting people registered regardless of party affiliation or candidates. The members are aiming their project at the entire voting public with a special effort to interest women who may have been lax about their voter registration. This is being done in conjunction with the league's desire to carry out President Johnson's proclamation declaring Sept. 12 as Women Voters Week.

At the fair, there will be free distribution of voting information for Kingston residents and Ulster County residents. Orders will be taken for Facts for Voters and the New York State Handbook. On sale at the booth will be the Handbook of Ulster County.

Women Voters Plan Booth at Fair Aug. 19-20

Because of the importance of this presidential election year, the four Leagues of Women Voters in Ulster County are manning a booth featuring complete registration and voting information, at the Ulster County Fair, Aug. 19 and 20.

Upon announcing this service, the presidents of the leagues, Mrs. David Gerberg, Kingston, Mrs. Alvin Moscovitz, Woodstock, Mrs. Robert Schuler, New Paltz, and Mrs. Charles Steele Jr., Saugerties Provisional League, urged the public to avail themselves of this opportunity. Members of the leagues will be on hand to give instruction in the use of a voting machine. Visitors to the booth need only ask for a demonstration. The leagues, in keeping with their non-partisan policy, are aware of the problem of getting people registered regardless of party affiliation or candidates. The members are aiming their project at the entire voting public with a special effort to interest women who may have been lax about their voter registration. This is being done in conjunction with the league's desire to carry out President Johnson's proclamation declaring Sept. 12 as Women Voters Week.

At the fair, there will be free distribution of voting information for Kingston residents and Ulster County residents. Orders will be taken for Facts for Voters and the New York State Handbook. On sale at the booth will be the Handbook of Ulster County.

Working on the committee to prepare the booth are Mrs. Harold Powell and Mrs. Joseph McCarthy, New Paltz; Mrs. Robert Dennen, Woodstock; Mrs. Jerome Anderson, Saugerties, and Mrs. Jeremiah Sachs and Mrs. Stanley Plasker, Kingston.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it will not embarrass its Asian and African friends by pressing its claim to a seat at the Bandung conference. But it blasted Communist China for trying to bar the door. In a statement to African and Asian governments, the Soviets said they felt their participation was "not obligatory."

The statement appeared to be a concession to friendly African and Asian governments which reportedly urged Moscow to give up its attempt to force its way into the forthcoming parley and touch off a threatened Red Chinese walkout.

West Newsmen Invited

LONDON (AP) — Communist Romania is searching here for ways to make it more independent of Moscow. For the first time in years, a large number of Western newsmen were invited to the Romanian Embassy Thursday and told Bucharest wants to expand contacts with Britain at all levels.

Parley on Flag

OTTAWA (AP) — The dispute about a new Canadian flag will be the subject of a special political conference next week. Informed sources say Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson has invited leaders of all Canadian political parties to a meeting Tuesday. It will be the second time such a meeting has been held.

The government wants a new flag sporting three red maple leaves. A counter proposal calls for only one leaf.

Wagon Trip Stalled

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — An American family, traveling to Moscow in a covered wagon, has temporarily halted in Poland. One of the horses went lame about 40 miles from Warsaw.

But the Leon Gills family of Richmond, Va., wasn't too dismayed. They immediately began making plans for getting Soviet visas from the Soviet Embassy here.

The family left Amsterdam Feb. 28 and has visited Holland, Belgium, France, Luxembourg, West Germany, Czechoslovakia and southern Poland.

Guests of Werner's

Hungarian Teenagers Prefer Simple American Goodies

To the average American as ice cream, hamburgers, peanut butter and hot dogs are things that are taken for granted from cradle to grave. For a couple of alert, intelligent teenagers who have just emerged from behind the Iron Curtain for the first time in their lives these things represent a wondrous adventure into a new wonderland.

Gyula Sarudi, 19, and his brother, Fritz, 17, of Budapest, Hungary rate these standard American delicacies high on their list of new favorites. But they also love the American people and have found them "very friendly" and "very hospitable."

The Sarudi boys and their mother, Mrs. Gyula Sarudi, are nearing the end of a month's vacation as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Werner of the Ohayo Mountain Road in Woodstock.

Mrs. Sarudi is sister-in-law to Mrs. Werner, wife of Woodstock's nationally known portrait painter. Mr. Sarudi, a professor at a Budapest University dental clinic, had to remain in the Communist-controlled country to guarantee the return of his family.

Like Woodstock

During their stay here, the Sarudi's have been given an intensive exposure to the scenic beauties and cultural life of the Woodstock area. Like all good tourists they have visited numerous art galleries, the Woodstock Playhouse and the two boys assisted in the Library Fair where Mrs. Werner is an annual worker.

With the Werners they visited the New York World's Fair and were given a guided tour of Metropolitan Museum of Art, Radio City, the Empire State building and other standard landmarks. But Woodstock comes first in their hearts because it so closely resembles the rural areas of Hungary.

American girls? They're simply beautiful, say Gyula and Fritz, but the language barrier and their intensive schedule has precluded any real association with them. Although they came to Woodstock not knowing a word of English, they have absorbed a remarkable vocabulary in three weeks.

The Sarudi's were introduced to these American goodies—hot dogs, hamburgers and ice cream—at a reception in their honor given by Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schroeder, long time friends of the Werners. Tall and athletically built, the two young men performed some amazing gastronomic feats around the outdoor charcoal grill.

They have not had a chance to see American baseball but expressed a preference to basketball, now an international sport. Both are excellent swimmers and adept in track and field.

There is only limited television in Hungary, with programs tightly controlled by the state. So it's no wonder they became rabid devotees of American TV. They even admit a fondness for American wrestling calling it a "great show" indicating maturity beyond their years. They also disagreed to disagree with the judges of the Miss Universe contest. In their book, it was Miss Italy all the way.

How many times have you gone to the supermarket or the fief and dime store, picked up an article of merchandise, gave it the once-over and casually put it back on the shelf? This is almost an automatic reflex with American shoppers, despite the ancient lament of the song: "Please no squeeze da banan."

But to Gyula and Fritz it's an amazing experience. You just don't do things like that in Hungary, where apparently you're stuck with it, if you lift it off the shelf.

Headed for Army
Gyula and Fritz are both the equivalent of American high school graduates. The elder son is scheduled to begin a two-year hitch in the Red army in October. After his discharge, he plans to take up his father's profession, dentistry. He flies back to Budapest on Monday, with Fritz and Mrs. Sarudi following via the Saturnia on Aug. 19.

The Sarudi family will go back behind the Iron Curtain with many pleasant memories, particularly for the young men. And for this trip at least the American girls, hot dogs, peanut butter, hamburgers and ice cream were the most.

BOAC Official Is Guest of Kiwanis

"The Impact of Politics on World Air Commerce" was the subject of a speech delivered before the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by David Schneider of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

In a summation of his subject, Schneider pointed out that the "Impact of Politics" was apparent locally when a citizen of a community could walk into a local travel agency and purchase an airways ticket to any place in the world without benefit of red-tape and entangling rules and regulations.

Ceiling Still Effective

In 1897, according to Schneider, the Interstate Commerce Act imposed certain regulations on domestic travel. In 1929 the Warsaw, Poland, "Warsaw Convention" was held in which 11 nations participated. One of the purposes of this "Convention" was to establish a limitation of liability so that transports could not be "wiped out by law suits." This resulted, said Schneider, in a ceiling of $8,300 that could be collected from a transport where proven neglect or misconduct was not a factor in a lawsuit to recover for damages. This ceiling is still in effect, said the speaker, who indicated that it was a very low figure as predicated upon current prices.

The International Air Transport Association was formed in Chicago in 1944 by 15 nations, and five rulings were the result of this meeting, said Schneider.

These rulings gave the right to fly over another nation's land, to set down in another nation for emergency purposes, to pick up passengers or cargo in the parent nation's country and deliver in that of another nation, to acquire cargo or passengers in another nation which would be destined for the parent companies' land, and to operate between two countries neither of which were the parent country.

Hard for Small Nations

Following these rulings came the Bermuda Bilateral treaty between the United States and Great Britain which brought a "point for point equal exchange between the countries" in the airline business. This treaty works well between large nations, according to Schneider, but does not work well with a small country involved because the latter can not trade point for point due to its smallness. Troubles over endeavors to find a solution for such a treaty between a large and small nation have become "political weapons." This has led the United States determining that from now on there must be an equal exchange.

Schneider also mentioned that there is "no pride in our airline carriers in this country, but small countries do have pride in their carriers."

The difference in feeling towards its carriers was explained by Schneider by stating that the American and the British airlines are interested in profits, while the airlines of some of the small countries are interested mainly "in showing their flag and prestige through their airlines."

The International Air Transport Association was portrayed by Schneider as a rules and regulations group currently comprising 94 carriers from 53 countries, and he credited this organization with making it possible to operate airlines with efficiency and without entanglements.

Hungarian Teenagers Prefer Simple American Goodies

To the average American as ice cream, hamburgers, peanut butter and hot dogs are things that are taken for granted from cradle to grave.

For a couple of alert, intelligent teenagers who have just emerged from behind the Iron Curtain for the first time in their lives these things represent a wonderful adventure into a new wonderland.

Gyula Sarudi, 19, and his brother, Fritz, 17, of Budapest, Hungary rate these standard American delicacies high on their list of new favorites. But they also love the American people and have found them "very friendly" and "very hospitable."

The Sarudi boys and their mother, Mrs. Gyula Sarudi, are nearing the end of a month's vacation as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Werner of the Ohayo Mountain Road in Woodstock.

Mrs. Sarudi is sister-in-law to Mrs. Werner, wife of Woodstock's nationally known portrait painter. Mr. Sarudi, a professor at a Budapest University dental clinic, had to remain in the Communist-controlled country to guarantee the return of his family.

Like Woodstock
During their stay here, the Sarudi's have been given an intensive exposure to the scenic beauties and cultural life of the Woodstock area. Like all good tourists they have visited numerous art galleries, the Woodstock Playhouse and the two boys assisted in the Library Fair where Mrs. Werner is an annual worker.

With the Werners they visited the New York World's Fair and were given a guided tour of Metropolitan Museum of Art, Radio City, the Empire State building and other standard landmarks. But Woodstock comes first in their hearts because it so closely resembles the rural areas of Hungary.

American girls? They're simply beautiful, say Gyula and Fritz, but the language barrier and their intensive schedule has precluded any real association with them. Although they came to Woodstock not knowing a word of English, they have absorbed a remarkable vocabulary in three weeks.

The Sarudi's were introduced to these American goodies—hot dogs, hamburgers and ice cream—at a reception in their honor given by Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schroeder, long time friends of the Werners. Tall and athletically built, the two young men performed some amazing gastronomic feats around the outdoor charcoal grill.

Prefer Basketball
They have not had a chance to see American baseball but expressed a preference to basketball, now an international sport. Both are excellent swimmers and adept in track and field.

There is only limited television in Hungary, with programs tightly controlled by the state. So it's no wonder they became rabid devotees of American TV. They even admit a fondness for American wrestling calling it a "great show" indicating maturity beyond their years. They also disagreed to disagree with the judges of the Miss Universe contest. In their book, it was Miss Italy all the way.

How many times have you gone to the supermarket or the flev and dime store, picked up an article of merchandise, gave it the once-over and casually put it back on the shelf? This is almost an automatic reflex with American shoppers, despite the ancient lament of the song: "Please no squeeze da banan." But to Gyula and Fritz it's an amazing experience. You just don't do things like that in Hungary, where apparently you're stuck with it, if you lift it off the shelf.

Headed for Army
Gyula and Fritz are both the equivalent of American high school graduates. The elder son is scheduled to begin a two-year hitch in the Red army in October. After his discharge, he plans to take up his father's profession, dentistry. He flies back to Budapest on Monday, with Fritz and Mrs. Sarudi following via the Saturday on Aug. 19.

The Sarudi family will go back behind the Iron Curtain with many pleasant memories, particularly for the young men. And for this trip at least the American girls, hot dogs, peanut butter, hamburgers and ice cream were the most.

BOAC Official Is Guest of Kiwanis

"The Impact of Politics on World Air Commerce" was the subject of a speech delivered before the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday by David Schneider of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

In a summation of his subject, Schneider pointed out that the "Impact of Politics" was apparent locally when a citizen of a community could walk into a local travel agency and purchase an airways ticket to any place in the world without benefit of red-tape and entangling rules and regulations.

Ceiling Still Effective

In 1897, according to Schneider, the Interstate Commerce Act imposed certain regulations on domestic travel. In 1929 the Warsaw, Poland, "Warsaw Convention" was held in which 11 nations participated. One of the purposes of this "Convention" was to establish a limitation of liability so that transports could not be "wiped out by law suits." This resulted, said Schneider, in a ceiling of $8,300 that could be collected from a transport where proven neglect or misconduct was not a factor in a lawsuit to recover for damages. This ceiling is still in effect, said the speaker, who indicated that it was a very low figure as predicated upon current prices.

The International Air Transport Association was formed in Chicago in 1944 by 15 nations, and five rulings were the result of this meeting, said Schneider. These rulings gave the right to fly over another nation's land, to set down in another nation for emergency purposes, to pick up passengers or cargo in the parent nation's country and deliver in that of another nation, to acquire cargo or passengers in another nation which would be destined for the parent companies' land, and to operate between two countries neither of which were the parent country.

Hard for Small Nations

Following these rulings came the Bermuda Bilateral treaty between the United States and Great Britain which brought a "point for point equal exchange between the countries" in the airline business. This treaty works well between large nations, according to Schneider, but does not work well with a small country involved because the latter can not trade point for point due to its smallness. Troubles over endeavors to find a solution for such a treaty between a large and small nation have become "political weapons." This has led the United States determining that from now on there must be an equal exchange.

Schneider also mentioned that there is "no pride in our airline carriers in this country, but small countries do have pride in their carriers."

The difference in feeling towards its carriers was explained by Schneider by stating that the American and the British airlines are interested in profits, while the airlines of some of the small countries are interested mainly "in showing their flag and prestige through their airlines."

The International Air Transport Association was portrayed by Schneider as a rules and regulations group currently comprising 94 carriers from 53 countries, and he credited this organization with making it possible to operate airlines with efficiency and without entanglements.

Felons Will Have Cell Keys At New Ultra-Modern Prison

By JOE RIGERT
SHELTON, Wash. (AP) — Convicts will carry the keys to their cells and their futures at the $14 million Washington State Corrections Center, one of the nation's newest and most modern prisons. The keys will unlock the cell doors. But it will take their cooperation in an extensive training program to open the iron gates for their return to society as useful, law-abiding citizens. High Walls Are Missing

The proving ground will be this sprawling, campus-type complex of 14 bright, airy buildings on a 400-acre site amid the forests of the southern Puget Sound country.

It bears little resemblance to the prisons of the past. Missing are the high walls, cavernous cellblocks and crowded cells.

Iron bars are replaced by reinforced concrete security screens of waffle-like design.

Good View of Fencing

The new institution embodies the latest in prison design, from the private cells, each with a view, to the 1½ miles of wire fencing that courses the rolling terrain.

Its buildings and program have been fashioned to teach responsibility rather than rebellion, train for employment rather than crime, and encourage toward acceptable behavior rather than deviancy.

"We don't subscribe to the notion that every man is hopeless," says Dr. Garrett Heyns, state director of institutions, who planned the prison as a capstone to a long career in corrections administration.

"Every man should have his chance to make good."

That chance will come next October, as the state gradually begins filling the facility to its capacity of 720 inmates.

The center is really two institutions in one — a 240-man reception unit, and a medium-security prison for 480 young first offenders showing the greatest promise for rehabilitation.

Nearly all newly committed male felons will be sent to the maximum-security reception center for six weeks of testing to determine where they should serve out their terms.

Plan Education Program

Those who remain here will get the benefit of high school classes, wide-ranging vocational courses and balanced recreational activities — all designed to turn their interests into productive lines.

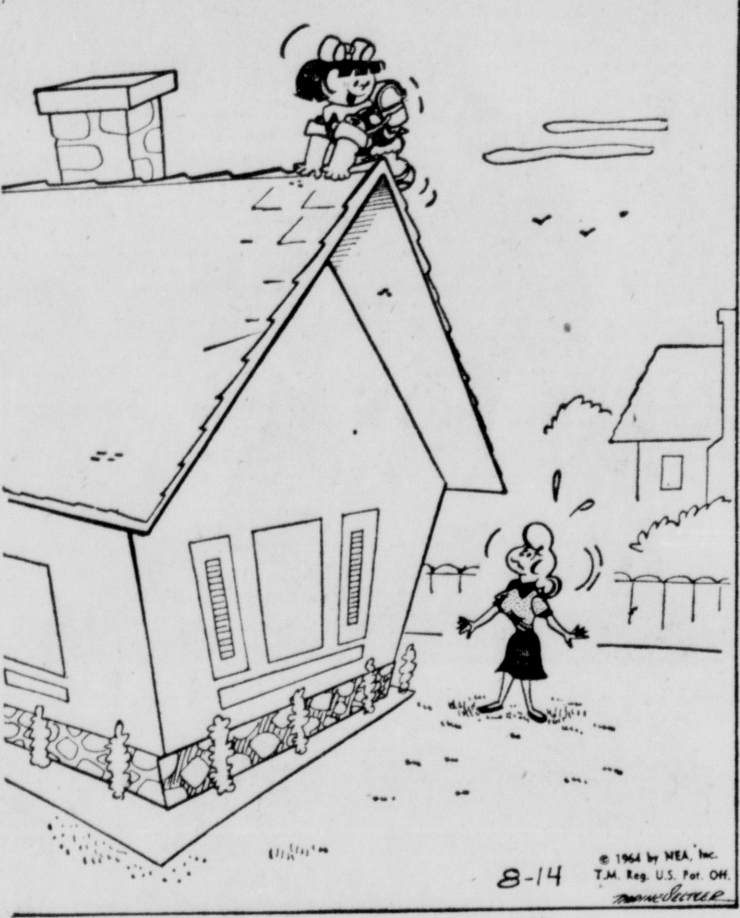

New inmates will be locked in their cells at night for the first three months. After that, if they show satisfactory progress, they will get keys.

Despite certain informality, Timpani says, the corrections center will be a prison — not a hotel or country club.

"The inmates are still here and not because they want to be," he said. "It's the loss of freedom that makes the prison, not the walls."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Feb. 11, 1910 issue, that a Julius Bien Co. of Port Even had been incorporated with the secretary of state with a capital of $200,000 to carry on a printing and engraving business.

The directors were Thomas Adam, Thomas J. Bannon and Charles Marks of New York. In this same paper they write about a fish war taking place on the Strand. It seemed there were two rival fish dealers, one received a large supply of fresh pickerel and put it up for sale at 10 cents early in the day. Later in the day the price went down to 5 cents.

In the June 7, 1910 Freeman they write about the repainting of the Eagle Hotel and the buying of the adjoining building by proprietor Hungerford, to be used as an annex. They said that the Eagle Hotel was now (1910) in excellent shape. Today the Ulster County Office building is looming up in that location.

In the June 7 issue they also tell about the Marlborough and Poughkeepsie steamers being taken off the Rondout and New York route, with the William F. Romer and the Central Hudson taking their place. From that date, the steamers were to leave Rondout at 6 o'clock.

In the June 14, 1910 issue I see there was a sale of Holstein-Friesian cattle in Syracuse, with 170 head bringing in $61,000, fifty of them being from Woodcrest farm at Rifton. A cow raised by Gardner and Misner of Ulster County brought in $2,600.

On Friday, June 17, 1910, it was stated in the Freeman that the state road from the Hurley line to Stone Ridge was being oiled and therefore it was advisable for those going to Ellenville from Kingston to use the Rosendale-High Falls road.

On this same date, they write about a Sunday afternoon accident at the Broadway crossing gates of the West Shore. As the gates were being raised, a touring car caught and broke off a large section of the barrier nearest the Hotel Ulster. The broken portion was removed from the roadway by one of the occupants of the car and the party proceeded down Broadway.

Also in the June 21, 1910 issue, they tell about the Kingston Development Co. purchasing the Donovan property at the corner of Washington and Linderman Avenue for development purposes. A contract was let out for the construction of a sewer along both streets to B. Loughran Co. Another contract was given for sidewalk, curb and gutter to William Davis. They planned to build fine residences in that location.

I mentioned the other day a wedding which took place June 29, 1904 in the old Roggen house, ancestral home of Mrs. Augustus Schoonmaker on Crown Street. Miss Anna Masten Schoonmaker, youngest daughter of Mrs. Schoonmaker and the late Judge Schoonmaker married Harry Neville De Lissar, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lionel De Lissar, with the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, of the Fair Street Reformed Church, officiating. Chief Judge Alton B. Parker was one of the guests, who at that time was running for President of the United States against Teddy Roosevelt. The lovely old stone house and gardens is presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Belefaz at 42 Crown Street.

SHELTON, Wash. (AP) — Convicts will carry the keys to their cells and their futures at the $14 million Washington State Corrections Center, one of the nation's newest and most modern prisons.

The keys will unlock the cell doors. But it will take their cooperation in an extensive training program to open the iron gates for their return to society as useful, law-abiding citizens. High Walls Are Missing The proving ground will be this sprawling, campus-type complex of 14 bright, airy buildings on a 400-acre site amid the forests of the southern Puget Sound country.

It bears little resemblance to the prisons of the past. Missing are the high walls, cavernous cellblocks and crowded cells.

Iron bars are replaced by reinforced concrete security screens of waffle-like design.

Good View of Fencing The new institution embodies the latest in prison design, from the private cells, each with a view, to the 1½ miles of wire fencing that courses the rolling terrain.

Its buildings and program have been fashioned to teach responsibility rather than rebellion, train for employment rather than crime, and encourage toward acceptable behavior rather than deviancy.

"We don't subscribe to the notion that every man is hopeless," says Dr. Garrett Heyns, state director of institutions, who planned the prison as a capstone to a long career in corrections administration.

"Every man should have his chance to make good." That chance will come next October, as the state gradually begins filling the facility to its capacity of 720 inmates.

The center is really two institutions in one — a 240-man reception unit, and a medium-security prison for 480 young first offenders showing the greatest promise for rehabilitation.

Nearly all newly committed male felons will be sent to the maximum-security reception center for six weeks of testing to determine where they should serve out their terms.

Plan Education Program

Those who remain here will get the benefit of high school classes, wide-ranging vocational courses and balanced recreational activities — all designed to turn their interests into productive lines.

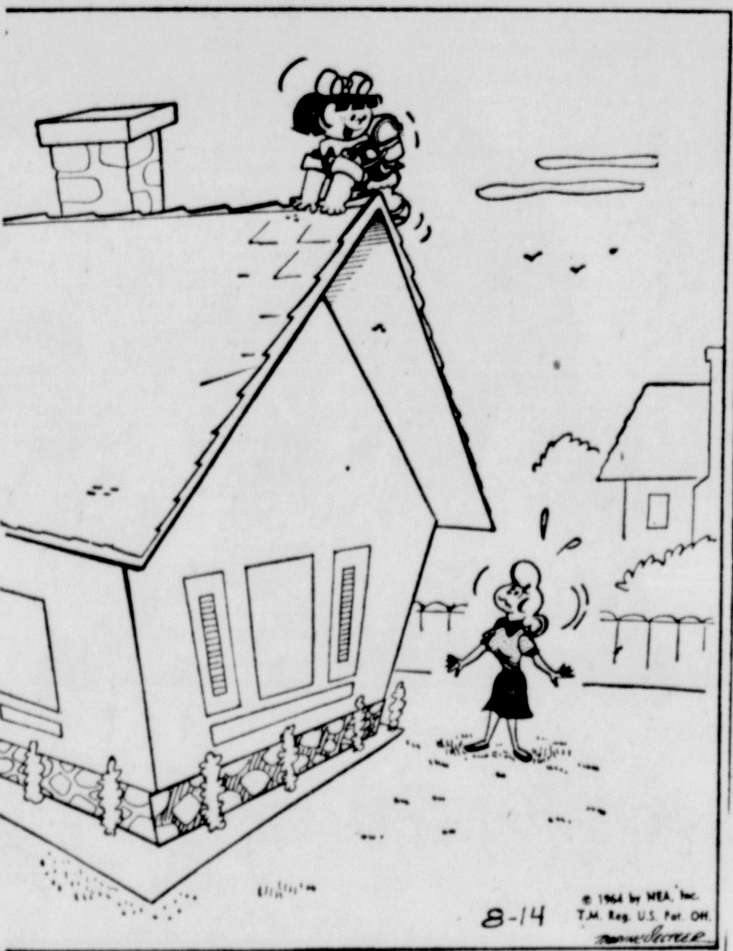

New inmates will be locked in their cells at night for the first three months. After that, if they show satisfactory progress, they will get keys.

Despite certain informality, Timpani says, the corrections center will be a prison — not a hotel or country club.

"The inmates are still here and not because they want to be," he said. "It's the loss of freedom that makes the prison, not the walls."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Looking through the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Feb. 11, 1910 issue, that a Julius Bien Co. of Port Even had been incorporated with the secretary of state with a capital of $200,000 to carry on a printing and engraving business.

The directors were Thomas Adam, Thomas J. Bannon and Charles Marks of New York. In this same paper they write about a fish war taking place on the Strand. It seemed there were two rival fish dealers, one received a large supply of fresh pickerel and put it up for sale at 10 cents early in the day. Later in the day the price went down to 5 cents.

In the June 7, 1910 Freeman they write about the repainting of the Eagle Hotel and the buying of the adjoining building by proprietor Hungerford, to be used as an annex. They said that the Eagle Hotel was now (1910) in excellent shape. Today the Ulster County Office building is looming up in that location.

In the June 7 issue they also tell about the Marlborough and Poughkeepsie steamers being taken off the Rondout and New York route, with the William F. Romer and the Central Hudson taking their place. From that date the steamers were to leave Rondout at 6 o'clock.

In the June 14, 1910 issue I see there was a sale of Holstein-Friesian cattle in Syracuse, with 170 head bringing in $61,000, fifty of them being from Woodcrest farm at Rifton. A cow raised by Gardner and Misner of Ulster County brought in $2,600.

On Friday, June 17, 1910, it was stated in the Freeman that the state road from the Hurley line to Stone Ridge was being oiled and therefore it was advisable for those going to Ellenville from Kingston to use the Rosendale-High Falls road.

On this same date, they write about a Sunday afternoon accident at the Broadway crossing gates of the West Shore. As the gates were being raised, a touring car caught and broke off a large section of the barrier nearest the Hotel Ulster. The broken portion was removed from the roadway by one of the occupants of the car and the party proceeded down Broadway.

Also in the June 21, 1910 issue, they tell about the Kingston Development Co. purchasing the Donovan property at the corner of Washington and Linderman Avenue for development purposes. A contract was let out for the construction of a sewer along both streets to B. Loughran Co. Another contract was given for sidewalk, curb and gutter to William Davis. They planned to build fine residences in that location. I mentioned the other day a wedding which took place June 29, 1904 in the old Roggen house, ancestral home of Mrs. Augustus Schoonmaker on Crown Street. Miss Anna Masten Schoonmaker, youngest daughter of Mrs. Schoonmaker and the late Judge Schoonmaker married Harry Neville De Lissner, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lionel De Lissner, with the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, of the Fair Street Reformed Church, officiating. Chief Judge Alton B. Parker was one of the guests, who at that time was running for President of the United States against Teddy Roosevelt. The lovely old stone house and gardens is presently owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Beleafs at 42 Crown Street.

Artificial bubbles are for seltzer —not for beer.

The idea of shooting CO₂ into beer has never appealed to me somehow.

Oh, the process is widely used and accepted in the industry today, and I'm sure there's nothing wrong with it.

It saves time and space and refrigeration, and hence money, by making it possible for a brewer to cut the aging time down to two or three weeks and still turn out a beer with "life."

But it just doesn't appeal to me.

I always felt that beer should have a natural life of its own, and that's the only thing you'll ever find in a bottle of Utica Club beer.

I think it makes a difference in the beer.

I think it's the only way you can turn out a beer that has mellowness and maturity — by aging it properly.

And judging by the amount of Utica Club we're selling, there are still plenty of stubborn characters around who agree with me.

Keeps Orioles In Lead With 7-1 Decision

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Robin Roberts, sold by the Phillies as over the hill and released by the Yankees without a look, could be a key man in the future of each of those ball clubs.

The 37-year-old right-hander scored his 10th victory of the year Thursday night, a four-hit effort over seven innings in a 7-1 triumph over Boston that put his Baltimore Orioles in excellent shape for the crucial series with the New York Yankees starting tonight.

The victory increased Baltimore's American League lead to three full games — its biggest in a month — and, at this stage of the season, made a Baltimore-Philadelphia World Series increasingly likely.

The Phillies, for whom Roberts won 230 games in 14 seasons, dropped a 3-1 decision to Chicago in the only National League game scheduled but were still 3½ games ahead of the pack, a hard-to-catch lead at this stage of the season.

Minnesota whipped Detroit 6-2 and the New York Yankees stayed within 3½ games of Baltimore with a 5-2 edge over second-place Chicago in the only other game on the major league schedule.

The victory concluded an unhappily important home stand for the Yankees in which they: 1. Lost a share of the league lead when they dropped a four-game set to Baltimore, three games to one.

2. Salvaged only two games out of four from Chicago, a team they had beaten 10 straight this season.

Now they head to Baltimore for three games, the final three of the season with the league leaders and the Orioles anxious for the chance to provide the coup de grace.

Roberts set it up last night. Pitching with only three days rest, he limited Boston to four hits in seven innings, had a 7-1 lead and retired in favor of Stu Miller.

He was staked to a five-run lead in the first inning by Brooks Robinson's three run homer, a run-producing error by Carl Yastrzemski and Norm Siebern's run-scoring single. A double by Ed Bressoud and Russ Nixon's single in the fifth produced the only Boston run.

The Yankees closed to within a half game of Chicago when Elston Howard's two-out, two-on homer in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and provided the Yanks with a split in the four-game set with the White Sox. Al Downing won his 10th and Gary Peters went the distance in losing.

Minnesota rammed in five runs in the first inning against Detroit's Dave Wickersham and coasted in from there, aided by Tony Oliva's 27th homer in the second.

Ernie Broglio limited the Phils to three hits and struck out nine as the Cubs broke Philadelphia's five-game winning string. Ernie Banks' 15th homer got the first run for the Cubs.

John Howland hurled the distance, giving up four hits. Pete Glass had a homer and Mike O'Brien doubled for Ferroxcube.

Network Buys Eighty Per Cent In Big Maneuver

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System

was set today to complete the purchase of the New York Yankees, the richest and most famous franchise in sports, in a sensational maneuver that could place the network behind the closed doors of baseball's highest council chambers.

As owners of the Yankees, the dominant team in baseball for 40 years, CBS presumably would gain full voting rights in American and major league matters.

That includes an upcoming Monday night television package deal during prime viewing time that could bring as much as $20 million. The network has not yet been selected. CBS, as owner of the Yankees, apparently would have equal voting rights with all other major league teams.

Get ¼ Vote
The American League President Joe Cronin, who announced from Boston Thursday night that the necessary three-fourths of the league owners had approved the sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees, emphasized, however, that:

"The American League was advised that if approval was granted the Yankees will be a separate entity and an autonomous organization independent of CBS with Dan Topping as president and other members of the organization continuing to formulate policy and to manage the Yankee organization."

The announcement brought Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, and Chicago White Sox President Arthur C. Allyn, who raised the question of "the potential ramifications of a national radio and television network controlling a major league club."

"We should know thoroughly what effect such a marriage will be. Dan Topping and Del Webb (co-owners of the Yankees) now have a contract with CBS. That network owns 80 per cent of the club with Topping and Webb each 10 per cent," Allyn said.

"The matter was not brought up at the joint meeting of the majors Tuesday or at our league meeting Monday. But we knew it had been, or was, under discussion between Cronin and the interested parties."

"I think it was a hurry up job. I don't like it a damn bit. It's a sloppy way to run the league."

Finley Outraged
"This is a hell of a lousy way to run the American League," Finley said. "When the baseball fans of America see the way things are ramrodded, I fear many of them will change their allegiance to the National League."

"The whole thing is indicative of the shenanigans pulled in the American League by Cronin."

Cronin said a telegraphic poll of the league owners was taken at the request of the Yankees and that any announcement of the sale must come from the club.

A team spokesman, however, passed the ball to CBS and said any statement must come from the network. The network declined immediate comment, but indicated that a formal statement was expected this afternoon.

Webb and Topping, along with Larry MacPhail, bought the Yankees in 1945 for a reported $2.8 million. MacPhail resigned as president two years later and Webb and Topping bought his interest for $2. The Stadium and grounds later were sold and now are owned by Rice University and the Knights of Columbus.

Worth 15 Million
The Yankees, excluding the stadium and grounds, now are estimated to be valued between $10 and $15 million.

A key factor in the transaction, and obviously, in the thinking of both Allyn and Finley, is the position CBS gains in relation to the majors' dealings with television, an increasingly important part of that is the new Monday night package which was announced last Monday at the major leagues' meetings in Chicago.

Since then the Yankees have carved an unmatched history of success, winning 28 American League championships and coping the World Series 20 times.

The club now known as the Yankees was purchased for $18,000 by Frank Farrell and Bill Devery, who bought the Baltimore franchise for that amount and transferred it to New York in 1903.

Yanks, Birds Ready For Showdown Series

BALTIMORE (AP) — Head-to-head competition in the three-way American League pennant race shifts to Baltimore tonight for the season's final series between the league-leading Orioles and the New York Yankees.

The Orioles moved into a three-game lead during the past week by taking three of four from the Yanks and sweeping three straight from the Boston Red Sox.

The runner-up Chicago White Sox lead the Yanks by only one-half game after splitting four games with the perennial champions.

Barber Goes Tonight
Steve Barber, a Yankee killer with a disappointing 7-8 seasonal record, will pitch the opener for the Orioles in a three-game series likely to draw record crowds to Memorial Stadium.

John Fetzer, president of the Detroit Tigers and chairman of the majors' television committee, said plans had been approved to televise one game each Monday night in 1965 with the proceeds to be divided equally among the 20 major league teams.

Major league baseball teams negotiate their own seasonal television and broadcast rights, as opposed to the National and American Football Leagues, which sell their rights as a package.

CBS recently purchased the television rights for the 1964 and 1965 NFL regular season games for a whopping $28.2 million and, in a separate deal, gained rights to the NFL playoff game for 1964 and 1965 at $1.8 million a game.

Has Series Rights
NBC, which purchased the rights to the AFL regular season games for five years starting in 1965 for $36 million, also has the rights to the World Series, at $2.5 million.

The sale of the Yankees to CBS would appear to give that network the inside track toward purchase of the World Series rights, but in Baltimore, Joseph A. W. Iglehart, chairman of the board of the Baltimore Orioles and former director of CBS, said this is not true.

"The sale will not have any effect on television contracts and individual ball clubs, or with the rights to the World Series and All-Star Game," he said.

Iglehart announced he had resigned from the Board of Directors of CBS to avoid a conflict of interest.

The club now known as the Yankees was purchased for $18,000 by Frank Farrell and Bill Devery, who bought the Baltimore franchise for that amount and transferred it to New York in 1903.

Vikings Are Vastly Improved, May Make Trouble in the West

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — This is the fourth year for the Minnesota Vikings. The youngest club in the National Football League has begun to jell and is about ready to start making trouble in the Western Conference.

Of the original 36 Vikings, only Grady Alderman, an offensive tackle, remains on the team that Norm Van Brocklin will lead into the season.

The Vikings had a 3-11 record their first year, were 2-11-1 in 1962, and last season they were 5-8-1, finishing in a fourth-place tie with Detroit in the tough Western half of the NFL.

Van Brocklin is counting on rookie defensive end Carl Eller of Minnesota, tight end Hal Bedsole of Southern California and, possibly, safety George Rose of Auburn and guard Milt Sunde of Minnesota to crack the regular lineup.

Good Ground Gainers
Inexperience in the deep defense may be costly but the Vikings should man a strong front four for pass rushing and should be able to move the ball on the ground with Bill Brown, Tom Mason and Ted Dean, acquired from the Philadelphia Eagles.

As with all pro clubs, the quarterback will tell the story. Van Brocklin is staying with Fran Tarkenton, starting his fourth pro year, as No. 1 with Ron Vanderkley behind him.

Paul Flaten, NFL Rookie of the Year in 1963, is the prime target at split end. If Bedsole, a 6-foot-4 230-pounder, can oust Jerry Reichow from tight end, Reichow probably will alternate with speedy Bob Reed at flanker.

Alderman and Errol Linden are the offensive tackles, Larry Bowie is a fixture at right guard and Mick Tingelhoff is the center. The left guard is a battle among Dave O'Brien, Palmer Pyle, acquired from Baltimore, and Sunde.

Dora's Joy Wins Raceway Feature

MONTICELLO — Coming from sixth around the clubhouse turn, Dora's Joy moved to the front before the three-quarter pole and breezed to an easy two-length victory to take Thursday night's feature $1,500 conditioned pace at Monticello Raceway.

Bill Dawkins kept the five-year-old bay mare behind the pack as Timekeeper and Frisky Prince battled for the lead in a 30 second quarter and a 1:01.4 half.

Coming around the clubhouse turn, Dawkins made his move and the horse responded with a good burst, moving to the front and then coasting home in the good time of 2:05.4.

Sent off as the 8-5 favorite, Dora's Joy, in winning her eighth race in 23 starts, returned $5.20, $3.10 and $3.10. Frisky Prince held on for second, paying $4.30 and $3.40. Rebel Land Chick paid $4.10 for third.

with 74's. Nelson posted 102-28 and Mrs. Conklin shot 98-24. The Calloway system was used to handicap visiting players.

Julius Chick pitched a brilliant one-hitter and his Knights of Columbus teammates scored a 1-0 win over the Elks to keep them in the battle for National division honors in the Kingston Babe Ruth league.

In other contests, the K.P.A. topped Kiwanis, 10-2, and the Vols scored a 15-8 decision over the Masons.

The Knights have a 10-3 record against 8-3 for the Elks and 8-4 for the VFW. It's a close race.

Chick proved to be the hitting hero for the winners. His double drove in a second inning run and it was all he needed. He walked six and struck out 13 in beating Charles Lay.

KPA handed Kiwanis its 13th straight setback in a game that was halted after the fourth frame because of a curfew. Dana Clearwater was the winner over Monte Rios.

John Denter hit a third inning grand-slam homer to lead the Vols to their decision over the Masons. Wayne Simpson was the winner and Charlie Howell the loser.

Humphrey, McCarthy Friends As VP Post Dangles Aloft

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—By an unusual twist, two long-time political comrades-in-arms and personal friends have been thrown into the roles of front-runners for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, 53, and Eugene J. McCarthy, 48, may find the roles a bit uncomfortable but they are carrying them through with good humor and grace as the time for a choice nears.

President Johnson, who will select the man for the No. 2 spot on the ticket, has not pointed a finger at either Minnesotan.

His choice may turn out to be someone else.

But Johnson's high regard for Humphrey and McCarthy has been voiced so often that speculation inevitably centered on them once the President eliminated Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and several other possibilities.

On Best of Terms
The two senators remain on the best of terms and continue to match their votes on almost every issue as the 1964 session grinds to an end.

Both will be delegates from Minnesota to the Atlantic City convention which opens Aug. 24. They even are able to kid about their predicament, as they did at a fund-raising dinner for McCarthy earlier in the year. McCarthy is a candidate for re-election to the Senate this fall.

Humphrey served as chairman for the dinner, which attracted Johnson and an unusual number of other top figures in the party.

Humphrey recalled there had been discussion in Congress of a constitutional amendment to provide for two vice presidents, and said that McCarthy had told him: "Hubert, don't be so downcast. When that constitutional amendment comes up taking care of Adlai (Stevenson) and me, we're going to amend it to provide for three vice presidents. We think there should be somebody who just travels around and has a good time."

"I want you to know, Gene, I accept," Humphrey replied. At that dinner, incidentally, Johnson termed McCarthy "one of the greatest men in public life." But he was generous in praise of Humphrey then and on other occasions.

Started Alike
Humphrey and McCarthy began to build their political careers as youthful idealists after World War II in the battle to mold a new liberal party in Minnesota from Democratic and Farm-Labor elements. Both entered politics from college teaching. Humphrey became mayor of Minneapolis.

In 1948, both defeated Republicans to win places in Congress and came to Washington. Humphrey as a senator and McCarthy as a House member.

When McCarthy decided to move over to the Senate in 1958, Humphrey campaigned for him all over the state. McCarthy has reciprocated in Humphrey's races.

Both senators are alike in their views on political questions and both are excellent speakers, although they differ sharply in style.

Humphrey is bouncy, vibrant, full of his subject, and his range of subjects is inexhaustible. McCarthy is much quieter, apt to use wit and irony, but he can be powerful, as his impressive nominating speech for Stevenson at the 1960 Los Angeles Democratic convention showed.

How Friends See It
Senate friends of the two men size up their chances in the vice-presidential contest this way: Humphrey is better known nationally and to Democratic politicians. He appears to have support of more party leaders and stands far higher in polls.

Johnson might well select him for this standing, for his broad knowledge of public affairs, his energy and zest, and his proven ability as a campaigner.

McCarthy is a bit more of a Johnson protégé, a graceful and attractive figure whose Roman Catholic faith might strengthen the ticket among some ethnic groups. He has more Southern support.

Johnson might decide he would prefer a running mate not quite so apt to be bursting with ideas and so ebullient.

Camera Setup Is More Fascinating Than the Actors

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stargazing, after all these years, remains the favorite sport of residents and visitors in this world film capital.

Buses providing guided tours around the studio lots and past the stars' homes are invariably filled. Except for the forthcoming Beatles appearance, the hottest ticket in town entitles the bearer to a two-hour, $2.50 tram ride around the busy Universal-Revue lot.

It is booked solidly for weeks in advance. Watching human actors — preferably well-known ones — perform is interesting, but even more fascinating is a look at the complicated assembly line set up to make a television series like "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," ABC's new science-adventure series about an atom-powered submarine and set 10 years in the future.

The series will specialize in dramatic undersea action which requires delicate, special camera work.

There will be collisions between subs, underwater explosions, even attacks on cities built on the ocean floor. All this violent action takes place in a cement tank on the studio backlot the size of a small swimming pool but considerably deeper and equipped with port-holes for the cameras' eyes. All the props, from subs to rocks and buildings are carefully constructed scale miniatures.

CBS' "Perry Mason Show" shut down production this week while star Raymond Burr is recovering from a bad tooth infection. He was not only in severe pain but his face swelled to a point where no makeup could disguise it.

Most interesting program of the past week by any standards was CBS' Thursday night visit with Mrs. Lyndon Baines Johnson at the "Little White House" in Texas, the LBJ Ranch.

Mrs. Johnson proved a warm, gracious and interesting hostess, moving informally through the downstairs rooms and pointing out items of special interest.

Walter Cronkite handled the half-hour in the effective old "person-to-person" style.

Mrs. Johnson will give ABC something like equal time with a Washington interview with Howard K. Smith in the White House Oval Room on Aug. 22.

Events will include a potato sack race, three-legged dash, tricycle race, 50 yard dash, peanut race, Jack and a relay race. Prizes will be awarded to the winners and refreshments will be served.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — News and comment on the Hollywood scene—

And now there is one: Richard Chamberlain, television's happy doctor, the only name remaining under exclusive contract to MGM. First Paula Prentiss gained her freedom, promising a picture a year. Now Yvette Mimieux, after a hard-fought campaign, has managed to wrangle a similar deal.

Yvette argued that the studio did little to further her career and most of her recent films were made for other companies — such as the current "Reward" with Max Von Sydow. The MGM brass finally saw it their way. Now she's lining up a number of deals, so many that she had to pass up an offer from Arthur Miller to star in the road company of "After the Fall."

MGM's contract list of one is in sharp contrast to 20 years ago when the studio boasted 50 top stars and 100 featured players, all on exclusive deals.

Disneyland is drawing a distinguished group of visitors this weekend. Vivien Leigh, John Gielgud, Simone Signoret and George Cukor have reservations at the Disneyland Hotel and will take the grand tour of Walt Disney's magic kingdom. I'd like to see that group sliding down the Matterhorn on the bob sleds.

No one is more pleased with the smash of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" than Debbie Reynolds, even though she doesn't have a share of the profits. Says she: "I wanted my last two pictures for MGM to be big money-makers, and they are. 'How the West Was Won' cost a lot of money, but it has already made something like $35 million. 'Molly' will be even more profitable; it cost $4.2 million."

Debbie still plans to enjoy her leisure until December when she returns with her night club act to Las Vegas.

The World Today

Humphrey, McCarthy Friends As VP Post Dangles Aloft

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—By an unusual twist, two long-time political comrades-in-arms and personal friends have been thrown into the roles of front-runners for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, 53, and Eugene J. McCarthy, 48, may find the roles a bit uncomfortable but they are carrying them through with good humor and grace as the time for a choice nears.

President Johnson, who will select the man for the No. 2 spot on the ticket, has not pointed a finger at either Minnesotan.

His choice may turn out to be someone else.

But Johnson's high regard for Humphrey and McCarthy has been voiced so often that speculation inevitably centered on them once the President eliminated Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and several other possibilities.

On Best of Terms

The two senators remain on the best of terms and continue to match their votes on almost every issue as the 1964 session grinds to an end.

Both will be delegates from Minnesota to the Atlantic City convention which opens Aug. 24. They even are able to kid about their predicament, as they did at a fund-raising dinner for McCarthy earlier in the year. McCarthy is a candidate for re-election to the Senate this fall.

Humphrey served as chairman for the dinner, which attracted Johnson and an unusual number of other top figures in the party.

Humphrey recalled there had been discussion in Congress of a constitutional amendment to provide for two vice presidents, and said that McCarthy had told him: "Hubert, don't be so downcast. When that constitutional amendment comes up taking care of Adlai (Stevenson) and me, we're going to amend it to provide for three vice presidents. We think there should be somebody who just travels around and has a good time."

"I want you to know, Gene, I accept," Humphrey replied.

At that dinner, incidentally, Johnson termed McCarthy "one of the greatest men in public life." But he was generous in praise of Humphrey then and on other occasions.

Started Alike

Humphrey and McCarthy began to build their political careers as youthful idealists after World War II in the battle to mold a new liberal party in Minnesota from Democratic and Farm-Labor elements. Both entered politics from college teaching. Humphrey became mayor of Minneapolis.

In 1948, both defeated Republicans to win places in Congress and came to Washington. Humphrey as a senator and McCarthy as a House member.

When McCarthy decided to move over to the Senate in 1958, Humphrey campaigned for him all over the state. McCarthy has reciprocated in Humphrey's races.

Both senators are alike in their views on political questions and both are excellent speakers, although they differ sharply in style.

Humphrey is bouncy, vibrant, full of his subject, and his range of subjects is inexhaustible. McCarthy is much quieter, apt to use wit and irony; but he can be powerful, as his impressive nominating speech for Stevenson at the 1960 Los Angeles Democratic convention showed.

How Friends See It

Senate friends of the two men size up their chances in the vice presidential contest this way:

Humphrey is better known nationally and to Democratic politicians. He appears to have support of more party leaders and stands far higher in polls.

Johnson might well select him for this standing, for his broad knowledge of public affairs, his energy and zest, and his proven ability as a campaigner.

McCarthy is a bit more of a Johnson protégé, a graceful and attractive figure whose Roman Catholic faith might strengthen the ticket among some ethnic groups. He has more Southern support.

Johnson might decide he would prefer a running mate not quite so apt to be bursting with ideas and so ebullient.

Camera Setup Is More Fascinating Than the Actors

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stargazing, after all these years, remains the favorite sport of residents and visitors in this world film capital.

Buses providing guided tours around the studio lots and past the stars' homes are invariably filled. Except for the forthcoming Beatles appearance, the hottest ticket in town entitles the bearer to a two-hour, $2.50 tram ride around the busy Universal-Revue lot.

It is booked solidly for weeks in advance.

Watching human actors — preferably well-known ones — perform is interesting, but even more fascinating is a look at the complicated assembly line set up to make a television series like "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea." ABC's new science-adventure series about an atom-powered submarine set 10 years in the future.

The series will specialize in dramatic undersea action which requires delicate, special camera work.

There will be collisions between subs, underwater explosions, even attacks on cities built on the ocean floor. All this violent action takes place in a cement tank on the studio backlot the size of a small swimming pool but considerably deeper and equipped with port-holes for the cameras' eyes. All the props, from subs to rocks and buildings are carefully constructed scale miniatures.

CBS' "Perry Mason Show" shut down production this week while star Raymond Burr is recovering from a bad tooth infection. He was not only in severe pain but his face swelled to a point where no makeup could disguise it.

Most interesting program of the past week by any standards was CBS' Thursday night visit with Mrs. Lyndon Baines Johnson at the "Little White House" in Texas, the LBJ Ranch.

Mrs. Johnson proved a warm, gracious and interesting hostess, moving informally through the downstairs rooms and pointing out items of special interest. Walter Cronkite handled the half-hour in the effective old "person-to-person" style.

Mrs. Johnson will give ABC something like equal time with a Washington interview with Howard K. Smith in the White House Oval Room on Aug. 22.

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — News and comment on the Hollywood scene—

And now there is one: Richard Chamberlain, television's happy doctor, the only name remaining under exclusive contract to MGM. First Paula Prentiss gained her freedom, promising a picture a year. Now Yvette Mimieux, after a hard-fought campaign, has managed to wangle a similar deal.

Yvette argued that the studio did little to further her career and most of her recent films were made for other companies — such as the current "Reverend" with Max Von Sydow. The MGM brass finally saw it her way. Now she's lining up a number of deals, so many that she had to pass up an offer from Arthur Miller to star in the road company of "After the Fall."

MGM's contract list of one is in sharp contrast to 20 years ago when the studio boasted 50 top stars and 100 featured players, all on exclusive deals.

tinguished group of visitors this weekend. Vivien Leigh, John Gielgud, Simone Signoret and George Cukor have reservations at the Disneyland Hotel and will take the grand tour of Walt Disney's magic kingdom. I'd like to see that group sliding down the Matterhorn on the bob sleds.

Midwest May Get Break From Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Autumnal weather continued across broad areas in the eastern half of the nation today, marking the longest and chilliest cool spell of the summer in many sections.

As temperatures again skidded to record low marks for Aug. 14 in many cities, there appeared a chance of some warm air moving into the Midwest region which has had nearly a week of chilly weather. However, unseasonably low temperatures were expected to continue in most areas from the eastern Great Lakes into New England.

Warmer Air Is Due Next Week

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 a.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Thursday:

Eastern New York — Some temperatures will rise to normal or above-normal readings next week, but the overall average probably will be just below normal. Showers are likely by late Sunday through Monday. Rainfall amounts will be spotty. Over much of the area, however, amounts near half an inch or more are likely.

Western New York — More seasonal temperatures are indicated for Saturday through Wednesday, but they still will average near four degrees below normal. Warmer over the weekend, cooler Monday, followed by slowly rising temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday is the forecast. Rainfall will average about half an inch in showers Sunday and Monday.

Temperature normals — Daytime highs 76-82. Nighttime lows 56-62.

Executives Get New Posts, Responsibilities in Shift

Ernest E. Althouse and Edwin T. Strong, vice presidents of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, will assume broader and new responsibilities in a reorganization of the company's engineering, operating and commercial departments, effective Sept. 1.

Company President Lelan F. Sillin Jr., in announcing the reorganization, said that it was being done to "provide even better customer services and more effectively to meet the expanding demand for gas and electricity that will accompany the forecasted growth of this region's population and economy."

He said that under the reorganizations, all functions directly associated with the local delivery of electricity and natural gas and also including sales, area development, community relations and rates, will become the responsibility of Strong and all activities involving the planning, design, building and operating of electric and gas facilities on a company-wide level will be grouped under Mr. Althouse.

In connection with consolidation of commercial and operating functions at the local level, Sillin announced the appointment of several executives to new responsibilities. Thomas F. X. Vail, has been named manager of the Eastern Division which covers most of Dutchess and parts of Putnam and Columbia Counties and has headquarters at Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie. He has served as manager of the Operating Division in the same area since 1951. Frederick W. Snyder, who has been Manager of the Commercial Division for the area, begins his retirement Sept. 1.

Wilbur R. Peters, who has been manager of the Upper Hudson Operating Division since 1961, has been named to head the consolidated function in the same area which includes most of Ulster and Greene and parts of Albany and Sullivan Counties, and has division headquarters in Kingston.

Arthur W. Buddenhagen, who has been serving as Upper Hudson Commercial Division Manager since 1960, has been appointed to the new position of Residential Sales Manager at the utility's General Office in Poughkeepsie. He will have overall responsibility for the planning of residential and farm sales programs and for supervision of all residential and farm sales, home service and dealer relations personnel, most of whom previously reported directly to the three former Commercial Division Managers.

Frank W. Shay, who has been Manager of the Lower Hudson Commercial Division since 1958, will be manager of the consolidated organization in the same southern Ulster and eastern Orange County area, headquartered in Newburgh.

Among the objectives of the reorganization, Sillin stated, "is the goal of providing even better service to our customers; greater efficiency of operation; better planning to meet the challenge of the population and business growth we foresee in the Mid-Hudson region; and a more effective organization to meet the keen and increasing competition for expanding energy markets. All these goals," he concluded, "are directly related to fulfilling our basic commitment of providing adequate and reliable supplies of electricity and natural gas at the lowest possible cost."

NEW YORK (AP)—A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, says his union will endorse President Johnson in the November election. It will be the first time the union has ever formally backed a presidential candidate, said the 75-year-old Randolph, who also is a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

Randolph said in a local television interview that he did not believe the Republican candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater, would enforce the new civil rights law with the necessary "enthusiasm."

Goldwater has pledged "faithful execution" of the law.

40 Yank Paratroops In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Forty U.S. paratroopers landed here Thursday night to ride U.S. helicopters on rescue and support missions in the revolt-torn Congo.

U.S. Embassy officials in this capital say the paratroopers are not here for combat but to guard four C-130 transport planes supplied to Congolese forces.

The paratroopers are members of an airborne division from Fort Bragg, N.C.

Armed with light weapons, including grenade launchers and bazookas, the paratroopers were expected to fly missions close to rebel-held territory. Observers here believed they might have to fire on the rebels, to defend themselves.

Thursday night's American airlift was the first of what American officials predicted would be a series of emergency deliveries of military equipment to the Congo to check the rebel advance. The rebels control about one fourth of the Congo's territory.

Tree Survives Fire

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — An ancient Redwood tree named Moses has won its eighty-day battle for life against a persistent fire which smoldered deep within its trunk.

Harry Harp, a state division of forestry dispatcher, announced Thursday that the fire was out and that Moses — a seedling before the birth of Christ — would probably live another 2,000 years.

The fire was started by lightning which struck the tree Aug. 4 and 6. It burned into the trunk 20 feet from the top of the 250-foot giant and fire fighters used helicopters to drop water and chemicals on the blaze.

Togliatti Grave, Suffers Stroke

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said today Italian Communist party leader Palmiro Togliatti suffered a stroke in Yalta Thursday. His condition was described as grave.

Togliatti, 71, arrived in Moscow Monday and left immediately for Yalta, a Black Sea resort.

L'Unita, official organ of the Italian Communist party, said Togliatti, 71, had been stricken with an unspecified illness. Togliatti has been in the Soviet Union for the past five days. Maurice Thorez, veteran leader of the French Communist party, died last month aboard a Soviet cruise ship in the Black Sea.

INDIAN LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—State Police and volunteers searched all Thursday night and again today in dense woods for a mother and her two young sons who did not return from a hike on Lewey Mountain, near this Adirondack community.

Mrs. Mary L. Peterson, 32, and her sons, John, 11, and Brian, 4, of Bohemia, Suffolk County, started out around noon Thursday with the husband and father, John, and two daughters, a spokesman at the Lewey Lake public campsite reported. The family has been camping there.

The spokesman said Peterson and the girls, separated from the others, returned shortly thereafter. When Mrs. Peterson and the boys had not returned by 7 p.m., the search was begun.

The weather was chilly in this Hamilton County area.

40 Yank Paratroops In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Forty U.S. paratroopers landed here Thursday night to ride U.S. helicopters on rescue and support missions in the revolt-torn Congo.

U.S. Embassy officials in this capital say the paratroopers are not here for combat but to guard four C-130 transport planes supplied to Congolese forces.

The men and planes are viewed as an expanded U.S. effort to bolster the central Congo government against the spreading, Communist-backed rebel offensive.

The paratroopers are members of an airborne division from Fort Bragg, N.C.

Armed with light weapons, including grenade launchers and bazookas, the paratroopers were expected to fly missions close to rebel-held territory. Observers here believed they might have to fire on the rebels, to defend themselves.

Thursday night's American airlift was the first of what American officials predicted would be a series of emergency deliveries of military equipment to the Congo to check the rebel advance. The rebels control about one fourth of the Congo's territory.

Tree Survives Fire

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — An ancient Redwood tree named Moses has won its eight-day battle for life against a persistent fire which smoldered deep within its trunk.

Harry Harp, a state division of forestry dispatcher, announced Thursday that the fire was out and that Moses — a seedling before the birth of Christ — would probably live another 2,000 years.

The fire was started by lightning which struck the tree Aug. 4 and 6. It burned into the trunk 20 feet from the top of the 250-foot giant and fire fighters used helicopters to drop water and chemicals on the blaze.

Togliatti Grave, Suffers Stroke

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said today Italian Communist party leader Palmiro Togliatti suffered a stroke in Yalta Thursday. His condition was described as grave.

Soviet specialists were reported to have been called to the Communist leader's bedside. Togliatti, 71, arrived in Moscow Monday and left immediately for Yalta, a Black Sea resort.

L'Unita, official organ of the Italian Communist party, said Togliatti, 71, had been stricken with an unspecified illness. Togliatti has been in the Soviet Union for the past five days. Maurice Thorez, veteran leader of the French Communist party, died last month aboard a Soviet cruise ship in the Black Sea.
